LBJ Urges Commission: 'Learn How To Stop It'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A somber President Johnson has named a blue-ribbon commission to seek the causes of violence in the land—violence that has now stricken Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The chief executive expressed his shock and dismay over the shooting of Kennedy in Los Angeles and told a national television-radio audience Wednesday night that violence, murder and assassination must stop.

"My fellow citizens, we cannot, we just must not, tolerate the sway of violent men among us," he said.

"We must not permit men who are filled with hatred, and careless of innocent lives, to dominate our streets and fill our homes with fear."

Declaring that "I hope and pray that we can learn how to stop it," Johnson announced creation of a 10-member commission to immediately examine what he termed "this tragic phenomenon" of violence and assassination.

He enjoined the commission to seek the help of medical and social scientists in searching for root causes of violence. The panel also will study further steps to prevent assassination and how better to protect public figures.

Commission members include Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, for-

How Much Security Needed For Candidates of Future?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In America, the men who would be president have walked freely among the people whose votes they sought.

But can they now, after Robert F. Kennedy was fatally shot by a gunman who lurked among cheering supporters?

The bullet which crashed into Kennedy's brain already has changed, and could doom, the free and open campaign style which has marked the politics of presidential year 1968.

Kennedy based his campaign for the White House on the argument that the people, not politicians, should choose the Democratic nominee. He walked through surging crowds, a friend and former FBI agent named Bill Barry often his only shield.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, Kennedy's rival in the primaries, was not a security conscious man. There was never any evidence of bodyguards around him.

Los Angeles Police Chief Thomas Reddin said after the Kennedy shooting that the New Yorker's campaign forces had twice turned down offers of police protection for their candidate. Reddin said candidates do not normally want policemen around them, for they want no barrier against the voter.

But now?

Even as Kennedy lay on the operating table in a Los Angeles hospital, President Johnson made a major change in the campaign security system.

He ordered the Secret Service to assign a protective detail to each major candidate, borrowing from other federal law enforcement agencies as necessary.

And agents were swiftly deployed, to Good Samaritan Hospital where Kennedy was under care, and to join the other candidates.

The White House said the directive meant protection would be provided for McCarthy; Republicans Richard M. Nixon, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Harold E. Stassen; and for third-party contender George C. Wallace as well.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, because of his office, already had Secret Service bodyguards.

mer president of Johns Hopkins University and brother of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower; Roman Catholic Archbishop Terence J. Cooke of New York, and veteran Congress members.

No chairman was named immediately.

During his 11-minute address, the President spoke with considerable force and intensity. He deplored the Kennedy shooting and praised the senator's "brilliant career of public service," his "uncommon energy and dedication."

He said: "We pray to God that he will spare Robert Kennedy and will restore him to full health and vigor."

"The Kennedy family has endured sorrow enough, and we pray that this family may be spared more anguish."

Johnson said there was a connection between hatred and lawlessness and the individual act of violence against Kennedy. But he said it would be wrong to conclude "that our country is sick, that it has lost its sense of balance, its sense of direction and common decency."

He said "200 million Americans did not strike Robert Kennedy last night any more than they struck John F. Kennedy in 1963 or Martin Luther King in April of this year."

But Johnson said, "Those awful events give us ample warning that in a climate of extremism, of disrespect for law, of contempt for the rights of others, violence may bring down the very best among us."

And he argued that a country that tolerates any form of violence "cannot expect to be able to confine it to just minor outbursts."

Johnson called on Congress to "pass laws to bring the insane traffic in guns to a halt."

President Leads Nation In Mourning

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Johnson led the nation in mourning today as Americans great and small reacted in grief and sorrow to the tragic assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The President, saying Kennedy had never abandoned faith in America although he knew far more than his share of personal tragedy, called for the nation to observe a national day of mourning Sunday.

In a proclamation issued upon learning of Kennedy's death today, the President directed that American flags on all federal buildings be flown at half-staff until Kennedy's burial.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, expressed a "profound personal loss" at Kennedy's death and called on all Americans to recommit themselves to the principles of humanity and individual justice.

"May our nation find the strength, the faith, and the wisdom to dispel the forces of irrational hate among us and to replace them with the love of man and God," Humphrey said.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said in a statement "this is a terrible tragedy both for a family and a nation which have known too many such tragedies in recent times."

Nixon said, "Sen. Kennedy was a man of tremendous energy and vitality. He was one of the great popular leaders in American history. Our deepest sympathies go out to the family of Sen. Kennedy in this hour of grief."

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said the death of Kennedy was "an unspeakable tragedy and a terrible loss to the nation."

Rockefeller proclaimed "the day of burial as a day of mourning in this state."

A state of mourning for California was declared by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

"I have directed that the period extend through the senator's funeral and that all flags in California be flown at half mast," he said.

"My sympathies go out to Mrs. Kennedy and the senator's children as well as his parents and other members of his family. Prayers of all Americans are with them."

Harsha Seeks Passage of Crime Bill

Congressman William Harsha today called upon the Congress to immediately pass the omnibus crime bill enacted by the Senate.

The Ohio lawmaker said that the tragic shooting of Senator Kennedy and other citizens in California, coupled with the equally tragic shooting of three Marine officers in the District of Columbia demonstratively indicate the sickness that is within this nation.

Harsha said, "There is almost total disregard and disrespect for law and order and the paramount domestic issue in this country today is law and order and the protection of our law-abiding citizens."

Congressman Harsha said the Supreme Court had become overly preoccupied with the rights of the criminal to the neglect of the rights of law-abiding citizens and the omnibus crime bill would correct this neglect.

"If this nation is to survive, then law and order must prevail." The Ohio lawmaker continued, "While there are imperfections and parts of the omnibus crime bill that I do not approve, the issue is so demanding and the problem so severe that it has to be dealt with promptly. Any imperfections," he continued, "can be corrected by subsequent legislation. The welfare of the nation dictates that the legislation pass forthwith."

Plan Autopsy To Show Extent Of RFK Wounds

Medics Not Sure Of Precise Cause Of Senator's Death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was a shattering .22-caliber bullet ramming into the depths of his brain which mortally wounded Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, but the precise medical cause of his critical condition—and death—remained a mystery today.

Up to his death, public knowledge of the extent of his brain damage was limited to sketchy reports.

A police official said a post-mortem would be performed.

Until he died, all questions about the senator's condition were referred to news secretary Frank Mankiewicz.

But a neurosurgeon quoted one of Kennedy's surgeons Wednesday as saying the team of Kennedy doctors had discovered "a sizeable blood clot in the head" caused by the bullet wound.

Dr. Lawrence Pool said he was told by Dr. Henry Cuneo, "The superior cerebellar artery, at the forward end of the brainstem was torn."

Dr. Pool said the arterial tear "could be a serious matter, leading to trouble with vision, motion and life itself, affecting

Bishara Sirhan On Son's Arrest: 'I'm Very Sorry'

TAIYEB, Israeli-Occupied Jordan (AP) — The father of the young man accused of shooting Sen. Robert F. Kennedy locked up his house today and cried from a window: "I am sorry. I brought up my children to be good."

Scores of journalists converged on this sleepy mountain village 2,500 feet high overlooking the city of Jericho.

Bishara Sirhan, 53, a short, swarthy man who lives alone in his stone cottage in a field, then retreated behind the shutters and would only say:

"I am very, very sorry. I brought up my children as best I could and to fear God. I am sorry for what happened."

Neighbors said Bishara Sirhan first went to the United States in 1950, and brought his wife Mary and sons Sherif, Adel, Munir, Sa'adullah, and Sirhan to America in 1957.

Bishara quarrelled with his wife and returned to Jordan in 1961, neighbors said. In Taiyeba he built his two-story cottage.

Sirhan, who is jobless, said he had had no letters from his sons since he returned to the village, which fell under Israeli rule in the Middle East war a year ago.

He is an American citizen and visited the United States twice after 1961.

The people of Taiyeba, farmers and shopkeepers, have over the past 50 years, been going to America to earn enough money to come home and open a business.

Accused Calm, Silent; Awaits Monday Hearing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — His name is Sirhan Bishara Sirhan. Police say he is a cool, close-mouthed Jordanian who fired a bullet from close range into the brain of Sen. Robert Kennedy.

Mayor Samuel W. Yorty says Sirhan apparently wrote in a 9-by-12 inch notebook about "the necessity to assassinate Sen. Kennedy before June 5, 1968."

Many — neighbors, former employers and the authorities — say he hates Jews.

He hurt his head in a fall last year, says his mother.

"All I know is he is a nice kid," says one of his four brothers.

A district attorney's investigator revealed today he was told Sirhan had been jailed by Pasadena police last December. But investigator Milt Smith declined to say on what charge Sirhan was arrested.

Asst. Dist. Atty. William L. Ritz said a grand jury would be asked to return an indictment charging Sirhan with Kennedy's murder.

In Pasadena police watch officer Russell Stone had a "red flag" file on Sirhan, indicating he had an arrest record.

But Stone said later, after re-checking, the file was that of a brother, Sharif Bishara Sirhan, 35. He was arrested in December 1963 on an attempted murder charge and later was put on a year's probation, Stone said.

Stone said complaints of disturbing the peace had been lodged against Sirhan Sirhan, but he had "never been booked, jailed or arrested by Pasadena police."

The record says Sirhan is 24 years old, 5-feet-5, weighs about 120 pounds, has a swarthy complexion and wiry hair. He has been an exercise boy at a race track, wanted to be a jockey and worked in a health food store.

He was under maximum security guard in a hospital ward at the Los Angeles County Central jail, charged with six counts of assault with intent to commit murder.

He is to appear at 8:30 a.m. Monday for a preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge Joan Klein.

Sirhan's index finger was broken and his left ankle sprained in a tussle that ended in his capture, seconds after Kennedy was shot early Wednesday.

Sirhan has talked to police, but not about Kennedy or the shooting. Officers said he was advised of his rights, but didn't want an attorney. He refused to give officers his name.

"It's nice to remain incognito," Inspector Pete Hagen quoted him as saying.

He "may have been inflamed" by Kennedy's call for U.S. jets for Israel during a televised campaign debate Saturday night, said a New York committee on American-Arab relations.

"He was violently pro-Jordan and anti-Israel," said John

Shear, who worked with Sirhan at Hollywood Park race track. "When there was trouble between Jordan and Israel, he would become inflamed."

With permission from Sirhan's family, police recovered two notebooks from his room. They contain 18 to 20 pages of handwriting. Some in Arabic, most in English.

In a notation entered either May 17 or 18, the mayor said, Sirhan apparently wrote "a direct reference to the necessity to assassinate Sen. Kennedy before June 5, 1968."

Kennedy was shot when June 5 was only a few minutes old. It was the first anniversary of the beginning of the six-day Arab-Israel war.

The flowers, with a get-well card, were sent by 5- and 6-year-old children at a child care center. The youngsters gave up their pennies and nickles to buy the bouquet.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy Society 'Sick,' Clergymen Say

NEW YORK (AP) — Something wrong with us, something blind, hard and wanton which triggers the fury and the fanatic's bullets. That is the assessment by religious leaders of the United States' virus of violence.

In the aftermath of the shooting of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, they saw in that event and in other recent destructive upheavals and deaths both a moral sickness and smouldering hostilities pervading American society.

"We've lost the sense of the sanctity of life," Rabbi Dr. Abraham Heschel, a noted Biblical scholar, said Wednesday. "We've become a nation of cynics, master debunkers of quality, nobility and the great values."

"We've surrendered our religious traditions for a cheap, self-regulating attitude which assumes it has no need of higher laws. It's a conspiracy of all of us. We've all failed."

It is this general environment of shattered standards, strong-arm tactics and undisciplined behavior—not just the mania of individual perpetrators—which the religious thinkers cited as a catalyst to the violent acts.

"Statistically, the number that commit the acts are small, but they're inclined to do it by the whole atmosphere of brute force," said the Rev. Robert McNamara, a Fordham University sociologist.

"We're sick, sick, sick. We've allowed the mass entertainment media, television, movies and comic books, to glorify violence in a terribly unhealthy way. The amount of sadism and masochism is incredible."

Others cited the growth of militarism including the Vietnam war, the trend toward permissiveness and the overall mechanization of life as engendering intense frustrations coupled

Burial Site Selected Senator's Rites Set for Saturday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, felled like his President brother by an assassin's bullet, died early today.

His mourning family prepared to take his body home to New York, across the nation Kennedy had hoped to lead as president.

And on Saturday, the senator is to be buried in Arlington National Cemetery, at the hillside plot which is the resting place of his brother, the late John F. Kennedy.

Robert Kennedy, 42, never regained consciousness, never showed signs of recovery after a savage burst of revolver fire sent a bullet plunging into his brain—at the pinnacle of his own campaign for the White House.

Kennedy, his pregnant wife, Ethel at his bedside, died at 1:44 a.m. PDT, little more than 24 hours after the assault at the Ambassador Hotel.

Kennedy's body was to be flown from Los Angeles to New York later today on a jet airplane provided by the White House.

Pierre Salinger, former presidential press secretary, said the body would lie in state Friday at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City.

A Requiem Mass will be held there Saturday morning. Salinger said Kennedy would be buried late Saturday in Arlington, across the Potomac River from Washington, where an eternal flame flickers in memory of John Kennedy, slain four years and seven months ago.

In preparation for Kennedy's last journey, a post mortem was under way at Good Samaritan Hospital in downtown Los Angeles.

President Johnson, the man who succeeded President Kennedy, issued a proclamation calling for a national day of mourning for the senator next Sunday.

Gov. Ronald Reagan declared a state of mourning in California, for the period through the senator's funeral.

As Kennedy died, the man accused of shooting him was under heavy guard at a downtown prison hospital, held in $250,000 bail for a court appearance which had been scheduled Monday.

Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was accused of wielding the .22-caliber revolver which cut down Kennedy and wounded five other people early Wednesday as the senator and his supporters celebrated victory in the California presidential primary.

The Los Angeles sheriff's office refused to say whether Sirhan had been advised that Kennedy was dead.

Sirhan, a Jordanian who had been living in Pasadena, was described by those who knew him as a man inflamed over the hostilities between his native state and Israel. A former employer said he might have been enraged by Kennedy's past words of support for Israel.

Kennedy's mother, Mrs. Rose Kennedy, was told of the death of her son by a niece, Ann Gargan. She was at Hyannis Port, Mass. Mrs. Kennedy—who had campaigned for Robert in the presidential primaries—went to mass at St. Francis Xavier Church.

Mrs. Kennedy had talked by telephone with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the family's lone surviving son, who was at Robert's bedside at the end.

Kennedy was surrounded by members of his family when he died.

Salinger said Ethel, the widow, "is bearing up very well."

Mrs. John F. Kennedy, widow of the assassinated President, was in her brother-in-law's room when he died.

Two of Kennedy's sisters, Mrs. Stephen Smith and Mrs. Patricia Lawford, were there, too.

Salinger said three of Kennedy's 10 children were in an adjacent room and saw their father before he died.

Pale and haggard, Frank Mankiewicz, Kennedy's press secretary, announced the death to newsmen.

"Sen. Robert Francis Kennedy died at 1:44 a.m. today," he began.

Then he answered questions. What was the specific cause of death?

Mankiewicz looked up numbly.

"The gunfire attack," he said. He said "the bullet that went into the head near the right ear" was the fatal shot. It entered Kennedy's brain. Surgeons operated for 3 hours and 40 minutes to remove all but a fragment in a vain attempt to save the senator's life.

But Kennedy never rallied.

"It was not a question of his sinking," Mankiewicz said, "but of not rising. He needed a rally and steady improvement in his condition, and that did not develop."

The body was to be taken from Los Angeles between 12 and 1 p.m. PDT. An earlier departure had been expected at first, but the time was moved back because the autopsy examination of the senator's body took longer than expected.

It began about 3:30 a.m. PDT and was expected to take about five hours.

Kennedy aides announced that at least 33 family members, friends and assistants would be aboard the Air Force jet on the flight to New York.

Among them were Kennedy's widow, three of his children, his brother Edward, two of his sisters, and Mrs. John Kennedy.

Another passenger was to be Mrs. Martin Luther King, whose husband fell prey to an assassin on April 4.

The Requiem Mass will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday.

The body will be placed on a train at 12:30 p.m. for the last journey to Washington. It is expected to arrive at about 4:40 p.m.

The funeral route will take the cortege past the U.S. Senate Office Building where Kennedy worked, and the Department of Justice, where he served as attorney general.

Salinger said Kennedy will be buried at about 5:30 p.m. Saturday in Arlington, probably at

NATION MOURNS RFK DEATH

LBJ Urges Commission: 'Learn How To Stop It'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A somber President Johnson has named a blue-ribbon commission to seek the causes of violence in the land—violence that has now stricken Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The chief executive expressed his shock and dismay over the shooting of Kennedy in Los Angeles and told a national television-radio audience Wednesday night that violence, murder and assassination must stop.

"My fellow citizens, we cannot, we just must not, tolerate the sway of violent men among us," he said.

"We must not permit men who are filled with hatred, and careless of innocent lives, to dominate our streets and fill our homes with fear."

Declaring that "I hope and pray that we can learn how to stop it," Johnson announced creation of a 10-member commission to immediately examine what he termed "this tragic phenomenon" of violence and assassination.

He enjoined the commission to seek the help of medical and social scientists in searching for root causes of violence. The panel also will study further steps to prevent assassination and how better to protect public figures.

Commission members include Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, former president of Johns Hopkins University and brother of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower; Roman Catholic Archbishop Terence J. Cooke of New York, and veteran Congress members.

No chairman was named immediately.

During his 11-minute address, the President spoke with considerable force and intensity. He deplored the Kennedy shooting and praised the senator's "brilliant career of public service," his "uncommon energy and dedication."

He said: "We pray to God that he will spare Robert Kennedy and will restore him to full health and vigor."

"The Kennedy family has endured sorrow enough, and we pray that this family may be spared more anguish."

Johnson said there was a connection between hatred and lawlessness and the individual act of violence against Kennedy. But he said it would be wrong to conclude "that our country is sick, that it has lost its sense of balance, its sense of direction and common decency."

He said "200 million Americans did not strike Robert Kennedy last night any more than they struck John F. Kennedy in 1963 or Martin Luther King in April of this year."

But Johnson said, "Those awful events give us ample warning that in a climate of extremism, of disrespect for law, of contempt for the rights of others, violence may bring down the very best among us."

And he argued that a country that tolerates any form of violence "cannot expect to be able to confine it to just minor outbursts."

Johnson called on Congress to "pass laws to bring the insane traffic in guns to a halt."

President Leads Nation In Mourning

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
President Johnson led the nation in mourning today as Americans great and small reacted in grief and sorrow to the tragic assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The President, saying Kennedy had never abandoned faith in America although he knew far more than his share of personal tragedy, called for the nation to observe a national day of mourning Sunday.

In a proclamation issued upon learning of Kennedy's death today, the President directed that American flags on all federal buildings be flown at half-staff until Kennedy's burial.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, expressed a "profound personal loss" at Kennedy's death and called on all Americans to recommit themselves to the principles of humanity and individual justice.

"May our nation find the strength, the faith, and the wisdom to dispel the forces of irrational hate among us and to replace them with the love of man and God," Humphrey said.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said in a statement in New York that Kennedy's death "is a terrible tragedy both for a family and a nation which have known too many such tragedies in recent times."

Nixon said, "Sen. Kennedy was a man of tremendous energy and vitality. He was one of the great popular leaders in American history. Our deepest sympathies go out to the family of Sen. Kennedy in this hour of grief."

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said the death of Kennedy was "an unspeakable tragedy and a terrible loss to the nation."

Rockefeller proclaimed "the day of burial as a day of mourning in this state."

A state of mourning for California was declared by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

"I have directed that the period extend through the senator's funeral and that all flags in California be flown at half mast," he said.

"My sympathies go out to Mrs. Kennedy and the senator's children as well as his parents and other members of his family. Prayers of all Americans are with them."

Plan Autopsy To Show Extent Of RFK Wounds

Medics Not Sure Of Precise Cause Of Senator's Death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was a shattering .22-caliber bullet ramming into the depths of his brain which mortally wounded Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, but the precise medical cause of his critical condition—and death—remained a mystery today.

Up to his death, public knowledge of the extent of his brain damage was limited to sketchy reports.

A police official said a post-mortem would be performed.

Until he died, all questions about the senator's condition were referred to news secretary Frank Mankiewicz.

But a neurosurgeon quoted one of Kennedy's surgeons Wednesday as saying the team of Kennedy doctors had discovered "a sizeable blood clot in the head" caused by the bullet wound.

Dr. Lawrence Pool said he was told by Dr. Henry Cuneo, "The superior cerebellar artery, at the forward end of the brainstem was torn."

Dr. Pool said the arterial tear "could be a serious matter, leading to trouble with vision, motion and life itself, affecting

Bishara Sirhan On Son's Arrest: 'I'm Very Sorry'

TAIYEB, Israeli-Occupied Jordan (AP) — The father of the young man accused of shooting Sen. Robert F. Kennedy locked up his house today and cried from a window: "I am sorry. I brought up my children to be good."

Scores of journalists converged on this sleepy mountain village 2,500 feet high overlooking the city of Jericho.

Bishara Sirhan, 53, a short, swarthy man who lives alone in his stone cottage in a field, then retreated behind the shutters and would only say:

"I am very, very sorry. I brought up my children as best I could and to fear God. I am sorry for what happened."

Neighbors said Bishara Sirhan first went to the United States in 1950, and brought his wife Mary and sons Sherif, Adel, Munir, Sa'adullah, and Sirhan to America in 1957.

Bishara quarrelled with his wife and returned to Jordan in 1961, neighbors said. In Taiyeba he built his two-story cottage.

Sirhan, who is jobless, said he had had no letters from his sons since he returned to the village, which fell under Israeli rule in the Middle East war a year ago.

He is an American citizen and visited the United States twice after 1961.

The people of Taiyeba, farmers and shopkeepers, have over the past 50 years, been going to America to earn enough money to come home and open a business.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy Society 'Sick,' Clergymen Say

NEW YORK (AP) — Something's wrong with us, something blind, hard and wanton which triggers the fury and the fanatic's bullets. That is the assessment by religious leaders of the United States' virus of violence.

"We're sick, sick, sick. We've allowed the mass entertainment media, television, movies and comic books, to glorify violence in a terribly unhealthy way. The amount of sadism and masochism is incredible."

Others cited the growth of militarism including the Vietnam war, the trend toward permissiveness and the over-all mechanization of life as engendering intense frustrations counterproductive to the national good.

"We've lost the sense of the sanctity of life," Rabbi Dr. Abraham Heschel, a noted Biblical scholar, said Wednesday.

"We've become a nation of cynics, master debunkers of quality, nobility and the great values."

"We've surrendered our religious traditions for a cheap, self-regulating attitude which assumes it has no need of higher laws. It's a conspiracy of all of us. We've all failed."

It is this general environment of shattered standards, strong-arm tactics and undisciplined behavior—not just the mania of individual perpetrators—which the religious thinkers cited as a catalyst to the violent acts.

"Statistically, the number that commit the acts are small, but they're inclined to do it by the whole atmosphere of brute force," said the Rev. Robert McNamara, a Fordham University sociologist.

Burial Site Selected Senator's Rites Set for Saturday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, felled like his President brother by an assassin's bullet, died early today.

His mourning family prepared to take his body home to New York, across the nation Kennedy had hoped to lead as president.

And on Saturday, the senator is to be buried in Arlington National Cemetery, at the hillside plot which is the resting place of his brother, the late John F. Kennedy.

Robert Kennedy, 42, never regained consciousness, never showed signs of recovery after a savage burst of revolver fire sent a bullet plunging into his brain—at the pinnacle of his own campaign for the White House.

Kennedy, his pregnant wife, Ethel at his bedside, died at 1:44 a.m. PDT, little more than 24 hours after the assault at the Ambassador Hotel.

Kennedy's body was to be flown from Los Angeles to New York later today on a jet airplane provided by the White House.

Pierre Salinger, former presidential press secretary, said the body would lie in state Friday at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City.

A Requiem Mass will be held there Saturday morning. Salinger said Kennedy would be buried late Saturday in Arlington, across the Potomac River from Washington, where an eternal flame flickers in memory of John Kennedy, slain four years and seven months ago.

In preparation for Kennedy's last journey, a post mortem was under way at Good Samaritan Hospital in downtown Los Angeles.

President Johnson, the man who succeeded President Kennedy, issued a proclamation calling for a national day of mourning for the senator next Sunday.

Gov. Ronald Reagan declared a state of mourning in California, for the period through the senator's funeral.

As Kennedy died, the man accused of shooting him was under heavy guard at a downtown prison hospital, held in $250,000 bail for a court appearance which had been scheduled Monday.

Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was accused of wielding the .22-caliber revolver which cut down Kennedy and wounded five other people early Wednesday as the senator and his supporters celebrated victory in the California presidential primary.

The Los Angeles sheriff's office refused to say whether Sirhan had been advised that Kennedy was dead.

Sirhan, a Jordanian who had been living in Pasadena, was described by those who knew him as a man inflamed over the hostilities between his native state and Israel. A former employer said he might have been enraged by Kennedy's past words of support for Israel.

Kennedy's mother, Mrs. Rose Kennedy, was told of the death of her son by a niece, Ann Gargan. She was at Hyannis Port, Mass. Mrs. Kennedy—who had campaigned for Robert in the presidential primaries—went to mass at St. Francis Xavier Church.

Mrs. Kennedy had talked by telephone with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the family's lone surviving son, who was at Robert's bedside at the end.

Kennedy was surrounded by members of his family when he died.

Salinger said Ethel, the widow, "is bearing up very well."

Mrs. John F. Kennedy, widow of the assassinated President, was in her brother-in-law's room when he died.

Two of Kennedy's sisters, Mrs. Stephen Smith and Mrs. Patricia Lawford, were there, too.

Salinger said three of Kennedy's 10 children were in an adjacent room and saw their father before he died.

Pale and haggard, Frank Mankiewicz, Kennedy's press secretary, announced the death to newsmen.

"Sen. Robert Francis Kennedy died at 1:44 a.m. today," he began.

Then he answered questions. What was the specific cause of death?

Mankiewicz looked up numbly.

"The gunfire attack," he said. He said "the bullet that went into the head near the right ear" was the fatal shot. It entered Kennedy's brain. Surgeons operated for 3 hours and 40 minutes to remove all but a fragment in a vain attempt to save the senator's life.

But Kennedy never rallied. "It was not a question of his sinking," Mankiewicz said, "but of not rising. He needed a rally and steady improvement in his condition, and that did not develop."

The body was to be taken from Los Angeles between 12 and 1 p.m. PDT. An earlier departure had been expected at first, but the time was moved back because the autopsy examination of the senator's body took longer than expected.

It began about 3:30 a.m. PDT and was expected to take about five hours.

Kennedy aides announced that at least 33 family members, friends and assistants would be aboard the Air Force jet on the flight to New York.

Among them were Kennedy's widow, three of his children, his brother Edward, two of his sisters, and Mrs. John Kennedy.

Another passenger was to be Mrs. Martin Luther King, whose husband fell prey to an assassin on April 4.

The Requiem Mass will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday.

The body will be placed on a train at 12:30 p.m. for the last journey to Washington. It is expected to arrive at about 4:40 p.m.

The funeral route will take the cortege past the U.S. Senate Office Building where Kennedy worked, and the Department of Justice, where he served as attorney general.

Salinger said Kennedy will be buried at about 5:30 p.m. Saturday in Arlington, probably at (Continued on Page 2)

How Much Security Needed For Candidates of Future?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In America, the men who would be president have walked freely among the people whose votes they sought.

But can they now, after Robert F. Kennedy was fatally shot by a gunman who lurked among cheering supporters?

The bullet which crashed into

Kennedy's brain already has changed, and could doom, the free and open campaign style which has marked the politics of presidential year 1968.

Kennedy based his campaign for the White House on the argument that the people, not politicians, should choose the Democratic nominee. He walked through surging crowds, a friend and former FBI agent named Bill Barry often his only shield.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, Kennedy's rival in the primaries, was not a security conscious man. There was never any evidence of bodyguards around him.

Los Angeles Police Chief Thomas Reddin said after the Kennedy shooting that the New Yorker's campaign forces had twice turned down offers of police protection for their candidate. Reddin said candidates do not normally want policemen around them, for they want no barrier against the voter.

But now?

Even as Kennedy lay on the operating table in a Los Angeles hospital, President Johnson made a major change in the campaign security system.

He ordered the Secret Service to assign a protective detail to each major candidate, borrowing from other federal law enforcement agencies as necessary.

And agents were swiftly deployed, to Good Samaritan Hospital where Kennedy was under care, and to join the other candidates.

The White House said the directive meant protection would be provided for McCarthy; Republicans Richard M. Nixon, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Harold E. Stassen; and for third-party contender George C. Wallace as well.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, because of his office, already had Secret Service bodyguards.

Harsha Seeks Passage of Crime Bill

Congressman William Harsha today called upon the Congress to immediately pass the omnibus crime bill enacted by the Senate.

The Ohio lawmaker said that the tragic shooting of Senator Kennedy and other citizens in California, coupled with the equally tragic shooting of three Marine officers in the District of Columbia demonstratively indicate the sickness that is within this nation.

Harsha said, "There is almost total disregard and disrespect for law and order and the paramount domestic issue in this country today is law and order and the protection of our law-abiding citizens."

Congressman Harsha said the Supreme Court had become overly preoccupied with the rights of the criminal to the neglect of the rights of law-abiding citizens and the omnibus crime bill would correct this neglect.

"If this nation is to survive, then law and order must prevail." The Ohio lawmaker continued, "While there are imperfections and parts of the omnibus crime bill that I do not approve, the issue is demanding and the problem so severe that it has to be dealt with promptly. Any imperfections," he continued, "can be corrected by subsequent legislation. The welfare of the nation dictates that the legislation pass forthwith."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A small bouquet of yellow daisies was delivered to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's room in Good Samaritan Hospital.

The flowers, with a get-well card, were sent by 5-and 6-year-old children at a child care center. The youngsters gave up their pennies and nickles to buy the bouquet.

Salingor said "all legal requirements" would be met before the body is removed from California. This apparently was in reference to an autopsy.

President Johnson said of Kennedy's death: "This is a time of tragedy and loss."

"During his life, he knew far more than his share of personal tragedy," Johnson said. "Yet he never abandoned his faith in America."

Kennedy was hit at least twice as his assailant emptied an eight shot, .22-caliber revolver in a swift volley as he passed through a kitchen passageway at the Ambassador.

One bullet struck his shoulder and lodged in his neck, the other penetrated to his brain.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, in Washington, expressed "profound personal loss" at Kennedy's death. "We have all lost a great American," he said. The vice president appealed that America may find the strength "to dispel the forces of irrational hate among us."

Kennedy's assassination brought presidential campaigning to a halt, as candidates suspended their search for political support. And it left the future Democratic picture in turmoil.

Kennedy's victory in California had pledged to him 172 delegates to the Democratic National Convention. They will represent California at the convention despite his death.

Kennedy entered the race on March 16, four days after Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., demonstrated the breadth of opposition to the administration by holding Johnson to a standoff in the New Hampshire presidential primary. McCarthy is the candidate Kennedy defeated in the California primary.

Kennedy had just left the victory celebration when the assassin struck.

Cleo Keaton

Given Reprieve

Cleo Vernon Keaton, sentenced to be executed in the electric chair Friday, has been granted a 60 day reprieve by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The reprieve, which lasts until Aug. 8, was granted to allow the governor time to consider a request for executive clemency, according to a warrant filed in the Pickaway County Clerk of Court's office.

Keaton was originally sentenced to be executed April 22, 1966 for the murder of Maurice Francis of Williamsport in March of 1965. Francis was killed on a lonely country road just north of Williamsport.

The somber realization that another American statesman, regardless of political philosophies, is dead by means of violence has caused countless citizens to feel shame for their country.

Many feel that the undisciplined way of life in America can be "blamed" for the increase in acts of violence.

Overpowering the feelings of shame, horror and bewilderment is the heartfelt sympathy for the Kennedy family.

This community will pay its respects to the slain Senator in its own way today, Friday and Saturday when last rites will be held in Arlington Cemetery near the shrine dedicated to his brother, the late President.

Logan Elm Seeks Mobile Remedial Reading Classroom

The Logan Elm Board of Education will rewrite a Title I project of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act to include a mobile classroom.

The mobile unit, if federal funds for its purchase are approved, will be used at Washington and Salt Creek Elementary Schools because of a shortage of classroom space at those buildings.

Thelma Trimmer has been employed as clerk of the Logan Elm Board of Education.

She will replace Lawrence McKenzie, veteran school employee, who announced his resignation recently. Mrs. Trimmer will assume her duties July 1.

SHE is presently serving as the clerk of the Pickaway County Board of Education.

In other action, the board approved the purchase of needed office equipment and the purchase of scaffolding to be used for building maintenance and repair.

The Beck Masonry Co. has been awarded a contract to spot point and repoint the three elementary buildings. The cost of the work will be $7,000.

William Williams has been named supervisor of the summer paint crew. Painting will be done at all the schools.

Judy Short has been employed by the board for summer library work.

The hourly rate of the school secretaries, cooks and aids has been increased to $1.50 effective in September.

THE principal's extended service has been increased to 11 months.

The board approved expenses for John Henn, local district superintendent, to attend the Ohio School Superintendent's Assn. meeting.

George Maliet has been employed as seventh and eighth grade teacher at Salt Creek Twp. School. All non-certified employees have been employed.

The board agreed to investigate and study Battelle Laboratory's proposal on "increasing the effectiveness of education management."

Guarantee Trust Life Co. has been awarded the student accident insurance program for the 1968-69 school year.

The resignation of Susan Hoffines as high school music instructor and Mary Betz, as cook at Washington Twp. were accepted this week.

LBJ Names Pickaway in Disaster Areas

Pickaway County was one of 31 southern Ohio counties named disaster areas by President Johnson in the wake of recent flooding, according to Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes.

In a telegram to Gov. Rhodes, the President said, "I have authorized an initial allocation of $1 million for disaster relief in the affected areas." Damage to county roads and bridges in Pickaway County was estimated at more than a million dollars by County Engineer Henry McCrady.

Other counties involved in the relief money allocation include Adams, Athens, Brown, Butler, Clermont, Clinton, Fairfield, Fayette, Franklin, Gallia, Greene, Guernsey, Hamilton, Highland, Hocking, Jackson, Lawrence, Licking, Meigs, Monroe, Montgomery, Morgan, Noble, Perry, Pike, Ross, Scioto, Vinton, Warren and Washington.

Most of the bullet, broken into fragments as it smashed into Kennedy's head at short range, was removed during a three hour 40-minute long operation Wednesday morning. One small fragment was left in the brain.

Mankiewicz said this was not a matter of great concern to the doctors, nor was a second bullet, which entered the slim senator's shoulder and came to rest lodged in his lower neck.

At a briefing late Wednesday, Mankiewicz did not confirm nor deny a published report that Kennedy suffered partial paralysis of his left side.

"I don't know anything about such a report," he said. "None of the doctors has told me that."

Earlier, Dr. John D. French, director of the Brain Research Institute at the University of California at Los Angeles and a neurosurgeon, said in an interview that if the central core or stem of the brain were damaged badly "the outlook may be worse than if almost any other part of the brain were injured."

"Investigations at the institute have shown that this area is related to behavioral responses such as arousal from sleep and the skill with which we use our hands and feet," he said. "Persons so injured have been known to live indefinitely without recovering usefulness — they become nobodies."

He also cited a spreading attitude that people, in confronting society's power structures, must be violent to establish their own identity. "While historically such measures may sometimes be justified," he said, "so much of the present violence seems completely mindless and directionless."

Services will be 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, New Holland, with Rev. Arthur George officiating. Burial will be in New Holland Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 2 p.m. Friday.

MR. HOWARD R. HINSON
Mr. Howard R. Hinson, 62, East Ringgold, died unexpectedly at his home 2:30 a.m. Thursday.

Born June 9, 1905 in Fairfield County, he was the son of Frank and Dorothy Hooke Hinson.

Mr. Hinson was a carpenter employed at Lockbourne Air Force Base.

Survivors include his widow, Gertrude May Hinson; a brother, Wayne, of Grove City and a sister, Mrs. Lawrence McGee of Williamsport.

Services will be 2:30 p.m. Saturday in Defenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. Cecil Rice officiating. Interment will be in Reber Hill Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning noon Friday.

Work continues at Red Cross headquarters to provide assistance to families who suffered losses in the floods of May 24.

Rehabilitation is now underway with the supervision of Mrs. Helen Taylor, reserve disaster worker for American Red Cross. She is instrumental in coordinating details for persons applying for aid.

According to Mrs. Roliff Wolford, executive secretary, 30 families applied to the local chapter for assistance.

A more detailed report of the recent disaster and emergency services provided will be forthcoming from Red Cross headquarters as rehabilitation is complete.

the hillside site where his brother's body lies.

Salingier said "ad legal requirements" would be met before the body is removed from California. This apparently was in reference to an autopsy.

President Johnson said of Kennedy's death: "This is a time of tragedy and loss."

"During his life, he knew far more than his share of personal tragedy," Johnson said. "Yet he never abandoned his faith in America."

Kennedy was hit at least twice as his assailant emptied an eight shot, 22-caliber revolver in a swift volley as he passed through a kitchen passageway at the Ambassador.

One bullet struck his shoulder and lodged in his neck, the other penetrated to his brain.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, in Washington, expressed "profound personal loss" at Kennedy's death. "We have all lost a great American," he said. The vice president appealed that America may find the strength "to dispel the forces of irrational hate among us."

Kennedy's assassination brought presidential campaigning to a halt, as candidates suspended their search for political support. And it left the future Democratic picture in turmoil.

Kennedy's victory in California had pledged to him 172 delegates to the Democratic National Convention. They will represent California at the convention despite his death.

Kennedy entered the race on March 16, four days after Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., demonstrated the breadth of opposition to the administration by holding Johnson to a standoff in the New Hampshire presidential primary. McCarthy is the candidate Kennedy defeated in the California primary.

Kennedy had just left the victory celebration when the assassin struck.

The somber realization that another American statesman, regardless of political philosophies, is dead by means of violence has caused countless citizens to feel shame for their country.

Many feel that the undisciplined way of life in America can be "blamed" for the increase in acts of violence.

Overcoming the feelings of shame, horror and bewilderment is the heartfelt sympathy for the Kennedy family.

License Tag 'Factory' Back In Production

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — A multimillion's Dollar business wiped out by fire 18 months ago is now back in production—with hopes of exceeding previous figures.

It's the auto license plate and sign-making shop at the Lebanon Correctional Institution, operated by inmates.

The prison's industrial wing was destroyed in a $2 million blaze Nov. 29, 1966. Before the fire, the plant was producing $5 million worth of license plates and road signs a year.

During a tour Tuesday for newsmen, Irwin Howerton, manager of Ohio Penal Industries, said work is now in full swing to turn out 14 million license tags for 1969.

Because of the fire, this year's Ohio license plates were made in New York and Nebraska plants.

But now, Howerton is talking about passing the $5 million figure here in the near future.

Alongside the tag shop in the rebuilt wing are a furniture factory and a new sign shop. Both are now equipped and some signs are being produced.

This industrial endeavour represents more than a few million dollars saved for the Ohio taxpayer.

"Many of these men have never even got up in the morning to go to work before," Maury C. Koblenz, chief of the Division of Correction pointed out. "Even the simplest tasks in the tag shop can get a man used to the working environment and to getting along with others."

"The more skilled tasks give an inmate a chance to show what he can do and to develop capacities which will be very valuable outside," Koblenz said.

"Cincinnati is the second most important graphic arts center in the United States," said Director Martin A. Janis of the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction. "Scene printing and the skills the men develop in this shop are easily marketable there."

"America was built on incentives," says Janis, who is convinced of the need to recognize and develop superior skills, if only with pennies a day. (A married prisoner gets 8½ cents an hour for his work time and a bachelor gets 4 cents. The married man's extra 4½ cents goes straight to his wife.)

At one time, men left prison unskilled and illiterate if they came in that way.

The men who came to Lebanon in the 1960s are still unskilled and illiterate in many cases. But officials say that academic and on-the-job training available now combine with a relaxed atmosphere to ensure that the 80 per cent Koblenz described as "reachable" leave prison with the skills they need to return to society as useful citizens.

Lebanon Supt. Charles Van Curen attaches a lot of importance to creating a relaxed atmosphere, even to the point of allowing inmates liberty to express constructive criticism of the system during group therapy sessions.

The men in the tag shop Tuesday were working at a pace that only piece work would demand outside.

Days before the hunting season opened a few years ago, the department of natural resources called for 15,000 "no hunting" signs for protected lands. According to the book, only 10,000 would be produced in the time available

World Shaken By RFK Death

LONDON (AP) — More expressions of shock, grief and horror poured forth today at news of the death of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The Arab world deplored the assassination, but the opinion was widely expressed that he died because of American policy in the Middle East, which the Arabs consider pro-Israeli.

At last the "murder of the Palestinian homeland" has been brought dramatically to the attention of the American people, said one Arabic newspaper in Lebanon.

Pope Paul VI was told of the death of the noted member of his Roman Catholic flock as he discussed Church business with a group of prelates in his Vatican apartment. He halted the meeting immediately, and the prelates prayed with him for Kennedy's soul.

Speaking for both the Church of England and for himself personally, the Archbishop of Canterbury expressed grief and horror over the death of the senator.

"I am grieved beyond words at this further tragedy for the Kennedy family and for the whole American people," said the archbishop, Dr. Michael Ramsey.

World Bank President Robert S. McNamara, a close friend of the Kennedys and a fellow Cabinet member in President John F. Kennedy's administration, made plans to return to the United States from Germany immediately. He and his wife had just arrived in Frankfurt, en route to Indonesia.

McNamara said Kennedy was "one of the wisest, most intelligent, most energetic and most compassionate political leaders in the Western world. It is a tragedy that he should be struck down in the prime of life."

Russians in the streets of Moscow were shocked at the news. One man's eyes filled with tears. A woman listened to the news in stunned silence.

Moscow radio and television reported the death without comment during a regular news broadcast, about 25 minutes after the death was reported in the West.

After reading the report of the death, the Soviet announcer quoted a comment in Pravda, published before Kennedy died, in which the Soviet Communist party newspaper implied that the shooting resulted from American capitalism and from right-wing opposition to Kennedy's views on the Vietnam war.

The British Broadcasting Corp. interrupted a morning radio program to announce the news and played 10 minutes of solemn music without comment.

French radio stations flashed the news, they played solemn music between news bulletins.

American servicemen in Vietnam were saddened, but many were resigned.

"I have an empty feeling," said Navy Lt. Steven C. Taylor, 27, of St. Louis, Mo. "If he had lived the chances are he would have been in very bad shape. It is very sad."

"I feel sick, dead sick," he said finally. "I would have voted for him. I'm supposed to go home in 10 days. Now I just don't look forward to seeing the States as much as I have the past 16 months."

Can't Say It in One Breath? It's Sure To Be a Winner

NEW YORK (AP) — "A good life hath but a few days, but a good name endureth forever."

That proverb may have been the inspiration for many who make a living out of making names endure, if not forever, at least until they hit the list of best-selling novels or movies.

A quick scan of current book and movie titles shows a penchant for the novelty title, the name to lure the buyer to screen or novel—perhaps knowing not what he buys but a name.

Who can forget, for instance, that unforgettable (unforgivable?) "The Persecution and Assassination of Marat as Performed by the Inmate of the Asylum of Charenton Under the Direction of the Marquis de Sade." For that matter, who can remember it? No one, apparently, and the title of the stage and screen version eventually was shortened to "Marat-Sade," if only for the benefit of theater marquees.

Bidding Completed On Silver Bridge Job

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) —Opening of substructure proposals Wednesday completed the taking of construction bids on a new Ohio River span to replace the collapsed Silver Bridge. The total of apparent low bids for substructure and superstructure is almost $6.8 million.

The new bridge, scheduled for completion next year, will be erected at Henderson. This is a short distance downriver from Point Pleasant, where the Silver Bridge fell last Dec. 15 with the loss of 46 lives.

The federal government and the states of West Virginia and Ohio will share financing of the new span.

MGM couldn't resist giving a kind of subtitle to "The Fearless Vampires, Or: Pardon Me, But Your Teeth Are in My Neck."

The question title has intrigued some others, too. Bob Booker's book has the title with the subway syndrome, "Pardon Me Sir, But Is My Eye Hurting Your Elbow?" And Richard Frisbie, in his new novel, asks the question that has been bothering us all: "Who Put the Bomb in Father Murphy's Chowder?"

Sex, of course, always helps sales, so Harlan Ellison has a head start with his novel, "Love Ain't Nothing but Sex Misspelled." Another novel title seems to plead for a return to the normal standards of sex: "The Man Who Loved Women," by Ernest Borneman. Alexander Rose reaches for the same nostalgia in this permissive sexual age with his book, "Memoirs of a Heterosexual," and playwright Paddy Chayefsky hit upon a similar title, "The Latent Heterosexual."

Titles are not always easy to come by, though.

Twentieth Century-Fox started out with "The Connecticut Look" and changed it to "The Feminine Mistake" and "A Guide for the Married Woman" before it settled on "The Secret Life of an American Wife."

Universal had problems deciding what to name the screen version of "The Milk Train Doesn't Stop Here Anymore." They began with "Boon," switched to "Sunburst," then "Goforth" and finally decided on—you guessed it—"Boon."

Columbia seemed to solve the problem with the latest Monkees' film: "Untitled."

After all, that which we call a rose by any other name would smell as sweet. So, what's in a name?

His savings have been wiped out for the third time in his third country.

Papay, 50, twice was the victim of currency devaluation before he came to this country.

However, importing the gold —$4,272 in Peruvian and Austrian coins — to his home in Mansfield was a violation of the Federal Gold Reserve Act, which prohibits holding gold stocks without a special license.

U.S. Customs agents confiscated the coins in a raid they staged after a package of gold from a Peruvian bank was intercepted in Miami on its way to Papay. Oakar said Tuesday.

Papay faces the possibility of paying the federal government penalties of more than $8,500 in addition to losing all his gold.

"He wasn't a dealer, he wasn't making a profit," Oakar explained. "He was just being a hard working, meager living, thirty European of the old school who figured it was best to hoard gold instead of dollars."

Papay was in his native Hungary when he was wiped out for the first time in the depression years of the 1930s. He later moved to Germany and was wiped out a second time when the mark was devalued following World War II.

Class of 1968

College commencement season is, for graduates and parents, one of the happiest of the year. The graduates are certain that now opportunities for the class of 1968 are plentiful. There was a substantial increase in the number of companies and agencies recruiting on the campuses this spring, as there seems to be almost every year.

While the scientifically trained are in most demand, liberal arts graduates are not being neglected. Service industries, especially finance and advertising, have many openings. A recommendation of many commencement speakers is that graduates continue their education to meet the growing need for men and women with master of doctor degrees. Some corporations are encouraging this by arranging part-time employment for those who want to pursue graduate studies.

It's a wonderful and exciting world, despite anxieties and hazards, that beckons the class of 1968.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — There is a popular theory of questionable merit that states that the only way in which a woman can succeed in a man's world is to forget she is a woman and battle it out on a man's terms.

In quest of evidence to support or disprove the theory, the brokerage business, a typically male domain, was chosen. Without question the male still prevails in stocks and bonds even though 51 per cent of stockholders are women.

Isabel O'Donnell of McLean, Va., a customer's "man" with Reynolds & Co., was asked to give her views.

"When I first went into this business," said Mrs. O'Donnell, "I was told it was a man's business, that I should act like a man, talk like a man, be like a man." Mrs. O'Donnell declined the advice. Like others of her sex, she did it her way.

Now, eight years later, this 37-year-old mother of six children and beautiful wife of an assistant to the atomic energy commissioner, has been chosen president of the Investment Brokers of Metropolitan Washington, the first of her sex ever elected. It was the men who voted her in.

"I think I've disproved that theory," says Mrs. O'Donnell.

Moreover, broker O'Donnell demonstrated that although equality of the sexes has now been legislated there still is a difference. As judged by her case, women do things differently. Business does not, it seems, dull feminine intuition or its propensity for happy chance.

In getting a job, for example. Late in the 1950s Mrs. O'Donnell, then training to be a salesgirl, was riding a bus. A conversation developed with another rider, a man. "You've got to be a stockbroker," he said.

"I laughed. It was like being told I should be a brain surgeon tomorrow."

The man, a broker, helped her obtain a job as an assistant receptionist at a brokerage house. She was fired. "I was told I walked too slowly," she said. The real reason, she suspects, was that the company had too many women.

"It was not a good show," she quotes a male broker, and she concedes the office probably did look a bit like a dress shop. Of 32 brokers, four were women.

Mrs. O'Donnell went home and cried on the shoulder of her husband, whom she describes as the boss of the house, the "big daddy" to everyone.

Composed, she went back to the office and the girls got together, as they often do in offices. "We had a gabfest and we decided on other companies I should apply to." And so she was hired as a trainee by another broker.

Could a man get started on the road to wealth in this manner? Unlikely. But Mrs. O'Donnell's completely feminine approach didn't end with obtaining the job. It permeates her philosophy of business.

"You just have to make up your mind to do the job and keep your values straight. You don't have emotional conflicts if you do this. With me God is first, then my husband, next the kids and fourth my job.

"If something happens at home when I'm supposed to see a client I just go home, there's no decision," said Mrs. O'Donnell, explaining that recently she rushed home to save her dogs from the dogcatcher.

When this was related to a minor stock purchaser it confirmed his typically male suspicion that women don't immerse themselves in their work as deeply as do men. "What if I needed her in a hurry?" he asked.

Mrs. O'Donnell's case is unusual but in some ways representative also. Women are in the American Stock Exchange has two women members and the New York Stock Exchange one, although none are seen amid the confusion of the floor.

Ironton Head Start Program Under Scrutiny; 2 Resign

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — The operation for an antipoverty project here will be investigated by a task force from the national Office of Economic Opportunity amid reports it may be discontinued.

Reports say the Ironton-Lawrence County Community Action Organization has become embroiled in partisan politics. An earlier investigation by officials recommended the local CAO be disbanded.

The CAO was to have begun its fourth annual Head Start program Monday, but $272,366 in federal money has been withheld pending the outcome of the investigation.

The county school board Tuesday withdrew its support of the program, meaning a loss of $4,000 in money donated by school employees. The board was to have paid the salaries of six persons for working in the Head Start program.

Craig Allen resigned 10 days ago as chairman of the CAO, and George Webb quit Tuesday as treasurer. Webb is also the county school superintendent.

The Head Start program in this Appalachia area was one of the largest in the state. This summer's program was planned for an estimated 960 underprivileged children of preschool age.

Maxine Plummer of Jackson, district coordinator for the Ohio office of the OEO, said Wednesday that if the local organization is abolished, it would be the end of Head Start programs here.

She said the investigation will begin Tuesday by a six-member team from the Washington and Chicago OEO offices. The probe will include an audit of finances she said.

Officials claim that OEO guidelines were not followed when 200 persons were hired last week for this year's program. Reports said some of those hired lacked adequate education.

Two weeks ago, the local CAO board had hired 200 persons for the program, but then fired them in the same week. An additional 200 were then hired last week.

Executive director of the program here is James H. Kennedy, who would not comment Wednesday about the investigation. He became director after his brother, Huxley, resigned recently to become city manager of Portsmouth.

Oil Executive Urges End to Promotion Games

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An oil company executive pleaded Wednesday for the industry to abolish promotional games, improve public appearance and upgrade service station dealers.

F. C. Moriarty, vice president of U.S. marketing for the Marathon Oil Co., Findlay, criticized the use of promotional games despite their popularity with customers.

Speaking at a convention of the Ohio Petroleum Marketers Association, Moriarty said the industry should realize games do little to enhance their public images.

Moriarty said Marathon uses games only in defense of its kiting production, adding "I would very much prefer to sell service and product quality."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Martin Luther King Memorial Foundation applied Wednesday for a license to operate in Ohio for fund-raising purposes.

Speaking of Your Health

I am a high school senior and wonder if you can help clarify the letters RNA and DNA that I read about. I am not a science major and therefore do not understand why these are so important. I feel that even a music student should know something about sciences.

Miss L.A. Kansas

Dear Miss A.: I am intrigued by your letter for many reasons. The first is that I, too, believe that knowledge should have no boundaries. Learning a little bit about many things adds to the stockpile of information that finally makes a family filled with the excitement and joy of music.

Foundation secretary Louise H. Schnorr said the organization's function is "restricted to the manufacture and sale of items bearing Martin Luther King's likeness for local organizations, as a product for fund raising."

The discovery of RNA (ribonucleic acid) and DNA (deoxy-ribonucleic acid) is probably one of the greatest advances in modern science. They truly can be called the messengers of the body that determine the code of life. Up to the time that they were "uncovered" the cell, and there are millions of them, in the body, was considered the unit of life. Later, the importance of nucleic acid as the building blocks of organs of the body became known. Now it is definitely recognized that RNA and DNA play a vital role in hereditary patterns and in production and control of many diseases that still remain a mystery.

So vast are the implications of RNA and DNA, that the very structure of viruses are even related to them. Only recently a virus was actually created in a test tube because of the newer knowledge of these substances. The real importance of this is that it may yet teach us how cells are invaded by viruses and how diseases like leukemia, and a host of other threats to man, can be controlled.

The scientific literature is pouring out unbelievable amounts of information about RNA and DNA. Their remarkable contribution to mankind will be felt by all of us who stand in awe of the delicacy of their wonders.

Is a cystocele the same as a dropped bladder? Does it eventually become cancerous if an operation is not performed?

Mrs. F.H., Michigan

Dear Mrs. H.: A cystocele, or a fallen, or dropped bladder, occurs rather frequently in women who have given birth to a number of children. Weakening and stretching of muscles during the delivery of a child occasionally makes the bladder, which collects urine, form a pouch into the wall of the vagina.

The fear that this might become cancerous is unrealistic, and there is no reason to live with this concern. The symptoms of a cystocele are a nuisance. There is involuntary loss of urine with laughing, coughing or sneezing, which may be responsible for discomfort and embarrassment. Surgical repair of this condition is remarkably safe and can be performed even in elderly people, without great risk.

to conclusions: We used to be warned, "Don't take any wooden nickels." Or, when we bought a thing not worth its price, "That isn't ever had a girl yawn in his face worth a plugged nickel." But our values are so topsy-turvy today that a wooden or plugged nickel is worth more than the real thing.

Aside from appearing looped in public, one of the most distasteful habits a girl can acquire is that of smoking her cigarettes down to the edge of the filter.

One of the puzzles of marriage is why two people so often would rather make war than love on rainy days.

Nothing makes a fellow feel more virtuous on the Sabbath than being the first member of the family to wake up, and then going out and carrying in the Sunday newspaper all by himself.

It is time for a man to clean out his wallet if he goes through it and finds one picture and five business cards of people he no longer can remember.

Science says that yawning is sometimes an indication of intense interest. But no guy who ever had a girl yawn in his face while telling her the story of his life ever felt totally flattered.

A slum neighborhood is one in which 10 per cent of the kids go wrong. A so-called "good neighborhood" is one in which, with all its advantages, five per cent of the kids turn out to be bad apples.

Balance Is Everything

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The "Establishment" has paid them good salaries all their lives, yet they sit around and whack it. They can't enjoy a meal without biting off a forefinger of the hand that feeds them.

There is Dr. Herbert Marcuse, for example, a 70-year-old philosopher and professor of sociology who, as a faculty member at the University of California at San Diego, has had a good life at the taxpayers' expense. Marcuse was in Germany when "Red Rudi" Dutschke, the anarchist youth leader of West Berlin, was first attracting attention. His opinion of Dutschke, meant to be flattering, was that he was "a sweet demagogue." The people who have enabled Marcuse to live get nothing but harsh words for their "bourgeois" qualities; as a patron saint of California's "flower children," Marcuse tells the students that their fathers and mothers are middle class exponents of "decadent materialism." Yet what class in human history aside from the "decadent" bourgeoisie has ever supported rights for all men, including rights of free speech for the revolutionaries who are sworn to the overthrow of middle class institutions?

I don't advocate that professors like Marcuse be fired; manifestly, students should have access to all points of view. But what bothers me about the middle class, which I otherwise cherish as being the most decent class that has ever existed, is that it just won't stand up and compel the universities it supports to balance every Herbert Marcuse with an equally learned professor who defends rights for all men, including capitalists. If, on the day that the Harvard University economics department hired Professor J. Kenneth Galbraith, it had also hired his antithesis in Professor Ludwig Von Mises or Frederick Hayek, believers in a free economy, I would have said "bravo" to the whole transaction. Balance is everything, but balance is just what we don't get.

The ridiculous thing about Marcuse and his kind is that they are hopelessly old hat. Marcuse sits around waiting for a "pre-revolutionary" situation to develop, cursing its slowness in coming in language not often heard on educational TV.

Meanwhile Marcuse welcomes the "Moral, political, intellectual and sexual rebellion of youth" against the affluent society.

What the hippies aren't told by their professors is that their styles represent a reversion to the late Eighteenth and early Nineteenth centuries, when Lord Byron was carrying on with Caroline Lamb, the romantic (you can read Lord Melbourne's favorite biography, "Young Melbourne," by David Cecil).

The intellectuals of the late Eighteenth and early Nineteenth centuries were all for something they called "sensibility" as against sense. But you don't learn about them in our social science courses today.

Indeed, our sociologists have always ignored the intellectual carriers of romantic revolutionary currents. Forty-five years ago as an undergraduate I learned about the poet Percy Bysshe Shelley's espousal of William Godwin's anarchism and the doctrine of free love from Chauncey Brewster Tinker, a professor of English, not from my teachers of political science. The romantic movement that produced the revolutions of 1848 (and the repressive reactions that came with Emperor Louis Napoleon in France and Bismarck in Germany) was made by poets such as Wordsworth, a flaming radical in his youth before he subsided into conservatism with old age.

The hippies on the one hand, and the Mark Rudds and Rudi Dutschkes on the other, don't realize that their response to the "Establishment" is as antiquated as any Gothic ruin. The followers of William Godwin, Lord Byron, Shelley and Wordsworth failed a hundred and fifty years ago because they had no workable recipe for a new "Establishment" to replace the old. Their cloudy revolutionary doctrines, when put to the test, either fizzled out into nothingness or were later exploited by the Communists, who used the anarchists as stalking horses for something that anarchism could not possibly approve.

If professors such as Herbert Marcuse had any feel for history, they would be telling the hippies not to be deluded by philosophies that failed a hundred and fifty years ago. But because we have little competent teaching in the social sciences today, we seem fated to repeat a history that will end in tragic waste as it has always ended before.

May Rainfall Hardest on Crops In Ten Years

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — May was the worst month for Ohio crops in more than a decade, the U.S. Department of Agriculture statistical reporting service says.

Less than 12 days were considered suitable for fieldwork the service says. Average for May is 21 days.

Not only crops were affected by the wet weather. Floods killed three persons, forced an estimated 3,000 from their homes and caused an estimated $9 million damage in central and southern Ohio.

By Monday only 70 per cent of the state's corn crop had been planted. The five-year average is 90 per cent by that date, the service said.

Only 30 per cent of the state's soybean crop had been planted by Monday.

Ironton Head Start Program Under Scrutiny; 2 Resign

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — The operation for an antipoverty project here will be investigated by a task force from the national Office of Economic Opportunity amid reports it may be discontinued.

Reports say the Ironton-Lawrence County Community Action Organization has become embroiled in partisan politics. An earlier investigation by officials recommended the local CAO be disbanded.

The CAO was to have begun its fourth annual Head Start program Monday, but $272,366 in federal money has been withheld pending the outcome of the investigation.

Two weeks ago, the local CAO board had hired 200 per-

Is a cystocele the same as a dropped bladder? Does it eventually become cancerous if an operation is not performed?

Mrs. F.H., Michigan
Dear Mrs. H.: A cystocele, or a fallen, or dropped bladder, occurs rather frequently in women who have given birth to a number of children. Weakening and stretching of muscles during the delivery of a child occasionally makes the bladder, which collects urine, form a pouch into the wall of the vagina.

The fear that this might become cancerous is unrealistic, and there is no reason to live with this concern. The symptoms of a cystocele are a nuisance. There is involuntary loss of urine with laughing, coughing or sneezing, which may be responsible for discomfort and embarrassment. Surgical repair of this condition is remarkably safe and can be performed even in elderly people, without great risk.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

We used to be warned, "Don't take any wooden nickels." Or, when we bought a thing not worth its price, "That isn't worth a plugged nickel." But our values are so topsy-turvy today that a wooden or plugged nickel is worth more than the real thing.

Balance Is Everything

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The "Establishment" has paid them good salaries all their lives, yet they sit around and whack it. They can't enjoy a meal without biting off a forefinger of the hand that feeds them.

There is Dr. Herbert Marcuse, for example, a 70-year-old philosopher and professor of sociology who, as a faculty member at the University of California at San Diego, has had a good life at the taxpayers' expense. Marcuse was in Germany when "Red Rudi" Dutschke, the anarchist youth leader of West Berlin, was first attracting attention. His opinion of Dutschke, meant to be flattering, was that he was "a sweet demagogue." The people who have enabled Marcuse to live get nothing but harsh words for their "bourgeois" qualities: as a patron saint of California's "flower children," Marcuse tells the students that their fathers and mothers are middle class exponents of "decadent materialism." Yet what class in human history aside from the "decadent" bourgeoisie has ever supported rights for all men, including rights of free speech for the revolutionaries who are sworn to the overthrow of middle class institutions?

I don't advocate that professors like Marcuse be fired: manifestly, students should have access to all points of view. But what bothers me about the middle class, which I otherwise cherish as being the most decent class that has ever existed, is that it just won't stand up and compel the universities it supports to balance every Herbert Marcuse with an equally learned professor who defends rights for all men, including capitalists. If, on the day that the Harvard University economics department hired Professor J. Kenneth Galbraith, it had also hired his antithesis in Professor Ludwig Von Mises or Frederick Hayek, believers in a free economy, I would have said "bravo" to the whole transaction. Balance is everything, but balance is just what we don't get.

The ridiculous thing about Marcuse and his kind is that they are hopelessly old hat. Marcuse sits around waiting for a "pre-revolutionary" situation to develop, cursing its slowness in coming in language not often heard on educational TV. Meanwhile Marcuse welcomes the "Moral, political, intellectual and sexual rebellion of youth" against the affluent society.

What the hippies aren't told by their professors is that their styles represent a reversion to the late Eighteenth and early Nineteenth centuries, when Lord Byron was carrying on with Caroline Lamb, the romantic wife of young Lord Melbourne (you can read about that affair in the late John F. Kennedy's favorite biography, "Young Melbourne," by David Cecil). The intellectuals of the late Eighteenth and early Nineteenth centuries were all for something they called "sensibility" as against sense. But you don't learn about them in our social science courses today.

Indeed, our sociologists have always ignored the intellectual carriers of romantic revolutionary currents. Forty-five years ago as an undergraduate I learned about the poet Percy Bysshe Shelley's espousal of William Godwin's anarchism and the doctrine of free love from Chauncey Brewster Tinker, a professor of English, not from my teachers of political science. The romantic movement that produced the revolutions of 1848 (and the repressive reactions that came with Emperor Louis Napoleon in France and Bismarck in Germany) was made by poets such as Wordsworth, a flaming radical in his youth before he subsided into conservatism with old age.

The hippies on the one hand, and the Mark Rudds and Rudi Dutschkes on the other, don't realize that their response to the "Establishment" is as antiquated as any Gothic ruin. The followers of William Godwin, Lord Byron, Shelley and Wordsworth failed a hundred and fifty years ago because they had no workable recipe for a new "Establishment" to replace the old. Their cloudy revolutionary doctrines, when put to the test, either fizzled out into nothingness or were later exploited by the Communists, who used the anarchists as stalking horses for something that anarchism could not possibly approve.

If professors such as Herbert Marcuse had any feel for history, they would be telling the hippies not to be deluded by philosophies that failed a hundred and fifty years ago. But because we have little competent teaching in the social sciences today, we seem fated to repeat a history that will end in tragic waste as it has always ended before.

May Rainfall Hardest on Crops In Ten Years

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—May was the worst month for Ohio crops in more than a decade, the U.S. Department of Agriculture statistical reporting service says.

Less than 12 days were considered suitable for fieldwork the service says. Average for May is 21 days.

Not only crops were affected by the wet weather. Floods killed three persons, forced an estimated 3,000 from their homes and caused an estimated $9 million damage in central and southern Ohio.

By Monday only 70 per cent of the state's corn crop had been planted. The five-year average is 90 per cent by that date, the service said.

Only 30 per cent of the state's soybean crop had been planted by Monday.

'Counter Commencement' Staged by 250 at Columbia

NEW YORK (AP)—Six weeks of student disorders at Columbia University climaxed Tuesday with the school's first rump graduation held for 250 capped and gowned students who walked out of the regular commencement exercises.

The protesters, joined by about 15 members of the teaching staff, left as Prof. Richard Hofstadter was beginning his commencement address Tuesday. They walked out quietly holding up their fingers in V signs.

About 1,600 other degree candidates remained in their seats in the huge Cathedral of St. John the Divine to hear Hofstadter denounce the tactics of student protest that crippled the 214-year-old Ivy League institution.

The demonstrators joined a cheering crowd of supporters outside the Episcopal Church and then walked four blocks to the campus of the 25,000-student university to hold their rump exercise on the steps of Low Library.

Hofstadter, a two-time Pulitzer Prize winner in history and literature, assailed the protest tactics of occupying campus buildings as a "thrust at the vitals of university life."

He said the "cruel and misconceived venture in Vietnam has done more than any other thing to inflame our students, to undermine their belief in the legitimacy of our normal political processes, and to convince them that violence is the order of the day."

But he suggested that "what students need and should have is influence, not power; but they also need formal channels to assure them that their influence is in fact effective."

At the rump exercise, called a "counter commencement," psychoanalyst Erich Fromm drew cheers when he told an audience of 2,000 that the students' walkout was a protest against "society's approaching state of low-grade schizophrenia, with the split between thought and feeling, truth and passion, mind and heart."

The neat and trim home of Alvin York on Route 3 has two gardens one on each side of the backyard. They have gone in for medium tall flowers and quite a variety. All very attractive.

The Frank Bowling's out on State Highway 56 have a very beautiful lawn. The evergreens are artistically planted so that they form a frame (picture) for their home. The color of the plantings add just the right touch needed to add the spice.

The George Millers on Island Road just through the Red Bridge have an Iris garden second to none. Every color and description is there. The wind-break of tall pine trees protects the house and gardens. Affording a sight everyone should see. It is quite a large garden and I am sure requires a lot of work and time.

There have been so many reports of beautiful peonies that it has been hard to stop and see them all. Some of the most spectacular were the James Scott's on Northridge Road. The first plant at the west edge of their yard is a pale pink almost white with the center the most yellow coloring to be seen.

The rose bushes are in bloom at this time of the year and so many of the roses are climbing. Mr. Ervin L. Kocher of 206 South Pickaway, has roses growing on a trellis that completely hides his front porch. The aroma is entrancing

Mrs. John Mast has a white clematis growing up a lamp post in her flower garden. She told me on the phone that she was going to put in a pink and blue one as they did so well in that particular spot.

Along side of the office of Dr. Robert Phillips there grows a yellow rose bush (Eclipse). The blooms were large and bright.

Rhodes Critical Of School Trends

CINCINNATI (AP) — Hammering at a familiar point, Gov. James A. Rhodes rapped high schools for aiming education mainly at college bound pupils. Rhodes told about 2,000 delegates at the Ohio AFL-CIO convention Tuesday that high schools should improve their methods to provide adequate vocational training.

Both booed and cheered — the latter when he said he could not run for a third term because of the state constitution — Rhodes said a "lack of education for jobs has built a caste system in Ohio."

He has delivered similar messages at various times.

He criticized Ohio's public welfare program, saying it is outmoded and obsolete and that youngsters want jobs, not doles.

Instant Coffee Price Fight Brews Hotter in Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — A hot fight is brewing between the Johnson administration and a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee over how much American housewives should have to pay for Brazil's instant coffee.

And Betty Furness, whose job involves making sure the housewives pay fair prices, is being called into the dispute.

The administration seeks committee support for a revised five-year extension of the International Coffee Agreement.

But Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., argues that one of the revisions would force American housewives to pay more for instant coffee.

Brazil does not levy an export tax on instant coffee. And the State Department says that allowing cut-rate instant coffee into the United States and other markets could undermine the international agreement and eventually mean higher prices for both instant and regular coffee.

Unsatisfied with that answer, Gore wants the opinion of Miss Furness, President Johnson's consumer affairs adviser.

She agreed to testify today. Gore clashed at an initial hearing Tuesday with Anthony Solomon, assistant secretary of state for economic affairs.

When Brazil began shipping instant-coffee powder without the export tax, the United States and other nations of the coffee-making agreement argued Brazil was favoring instant coffee at the expense of green coffee beans on which it did have an export tax. As a result, the proposed new international agreement contains a provision that no member country will favor one type of coffee export over another through taxes or other governmental action.

But Gore told Solomon he saw no reason why the price of instant coffee should be raised through the tax procedure if

Brazil wanted to send a lower-cost product to this country.

Solomon insisted the cheaper coffee represented a breach that could eventually bring down the whole government.

And Betty Furness, whose job involves making sure the housewives pay fair prices, is being called into the dispute.

The administration seeks committee support for a revised five-year extension of the International Coffee Agreement.

But Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., argues that one of the revisions would force American housewives to pay more for instant coffee.

Brazil does not levy an export tax on instant coffee. And the State Department says that allowing cut-rate instant coffee into the United States and other markets could undermine the international agreement and eventually mean higher prices for both instant and regular coffee.

Unsatisfied with that answer, Gore wants the opinion of Miss Furness, President Johnson's consumer affairs adviser.

She agreed to testify today. Gore clashed at an initial hearing Tuesday with Anthony Solomon, assistant secretary of state for economic affairs.

When Brazil began shipping instant-coffee powder without the export tax, the United States and other nations of the coffee-making agreement argued Brazil was favoring instant coffee at the expense of green coffee beans on which it did have an export tax. As a result, the proposed new international agreement contains a provision that no member country will favor one type of coffee export over another through taxes or other governmental action.

But Gore told Solomon he saw no reason why the price of instant coffee should be raised through the tax procedure if

Brazil wanted to send a lower-cost product to this country.

Solomon insisted the cheaper coffee represented a breach that could eventually bring down the whole government.

Rhodes Critical Of School Trends

CINCINNATI (AP) — Hammering at a familiar point, Gov. James A. Rhodes rapped high schools for aiming education mainly at college bound pupils. Rhodes told about 2,000 delegates at the Ohio AFL-CIO convention Tuesday that high schools should improve their methods to provide adequate vocational training.

Both booed and cheered — the latter when he said he could not run for a third term because of the state constitution — Rhodes said a "lack of education for jobs has built a caste system in Ohio."

He has delivered similar messages at various times.

He criticized Ohio's public welfare program, saying it is outmoded and obsolete and that youngsters want jobs, not

Auckland 'Clipon' Bridge Bring Relief

By GORDON TAIT
Associated Press Writer
AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — On May 30, 1959, a grand bridge was opened across Waitemata harbor, the sheltered deep-water port around which this largest New Zealand city is built. For the half-million Aucklanders it was a dream come true.

The bridge was 3,348 feet long, 142 feet above high water, could carry two lanes of traffic each way, and was going to be big enough to last the city for 25 years.

But in three years, in 1962, there was talk of the need of a second bridge, or a subway, or something, because the volume of traffic already was that predicted for 1974.

Today a Japanese firm is "clipping" two extra traffic lanes to each side of the bridge to double its capacity.

The Japanese company is Ishikawajima-Harima heavy industries of Tokyo, civil engineers, shipbuilders, manufacturers of engines, machinery, and power equipment.

In February, 1966, the Auckland Bridge Authority called for bids and plans for two extra lanes on each side of the existing bridge. Two Japanese firms, and one each from Germany, Britain and Austria sent bids. The contract with IHI for the equivalent of $10.4 million was signed Nov. 4, 1966, and work is to be finished next April.

Before the bids were called, Auckland had plans drawn up for bridge extensions that provided for 1,150 girders to be riveted together. IHI came up with the idea of using just 26 girders, each 300 to 400 feet long and weighing close to 400 tons, and welding them together. This is what is being done.

First the Japanese company brought out 22-ton brackets, and fixed them to the bridge piers to carry the roadway girders. New Zealand workmen quickly painted on the side of a bridge abutment: "Nippon Clipon."

In October 1967, two giant floating cranes, built in Japan especially for the job, arrived after a 40-day tow from Tokyo. Each is 180 feet high with a lifting capacity of 250 tons.

Then came the first of the giant box girders, prefabricated in Japan, and the cranes, working together, began to lift them into position. The girders arrived from Japan, three at a time, on the deck of a former 13,000-ton oil tanker and are kept on another former tanker in the harbor until needed.

The clipon idea is expected to cut the equivalent of $5 million off the original estimate of the cost of the job; the work will be completed sooner than by conventional methods; the widening is being done without interrupting the flow of traffic across the bridge.

On an average day, 35,000 vehicles now use the bridge, nearly three times the volume in the opening year.

Already, the general manager of the bridge authority, Owen H. Brannigan, has predicted that the widened bridge will be too small for Auckland traffic by 1979.

Chaplain Wins Heroism Award

SAIGON (AP) — Father Angelo Liteky, a Roman Catholic chaplain who rescued 20 wounded GIs in a jungle fire fight, stood at nervous attention today between a row of armored vehicles to receive the Distinguished Service Cross, the highest award ever given to a chaplain in Vietnam.

The medal, America's second highest for heroism, was pinned on the Jacksonville, Fla., priest by Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, deputy U.S. commander in Vietnam, in a simple ceremony at Forward Fire Base Stephanie, a muddy patch of nowhere three miles west of Saigon.

Some of the watching infantrymen and helicopter pilots were there in the jungles that humid day, Dec. 6, when a company moved out in search of the Viet Cong mortar teams that had shelled the base camp of the 4th Battalion, 12th Infantry the night before.

"The padre always went along on our operations," said Platoon Sgt. Daniel Garrison of Belmont, Wis., who won the Silver Star in the same action. "He's the kind of guy who liked to sit down and talk with you over a beer or a can of C rations."

But it was the 37-year-old priest's first time under fire when the patrol encountered a well entrenched North Vietnamese and Viet Cong battalion and was stunned with an opening barrage of automatic weapons, claymore mines and recoilless rifles.

That afternoon in A Company and the two companies that came to the rescue 21 men were killed and 74 wounded, nearly half of them in the first few minutes.

Father Liteky said the last rites over four infantrymen. Then there was a tremendous explosion, a claymore mine, knocking two men off their feet. To the priest's amazement, both were alive. He lifted one man onto his chest and began dragging him back off the trail. Then he went back for the other one. Bullets ripped the trees nearby.

All afternoon, the jut-jawed priest, who washed out as a quarterback at the University of Florida, seemed to be every where hauling out wounded, carrying stretchers, bringing up water and ammunition.

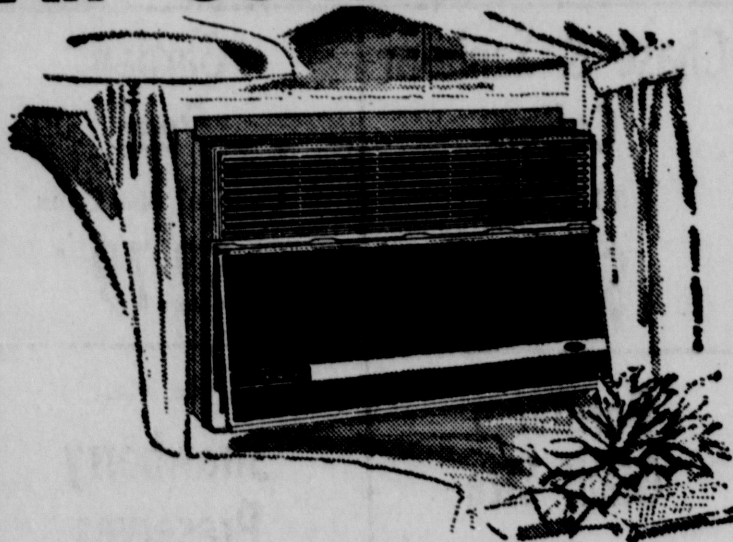

"Don't go up there any more, Father," Garrison told him, "until things have quieted down." Then there was the hissing sound of a rocket and every one dove for cover. Father Liteky was hit in the neck and feet by the flying shards, but he refused evacuation.

The rest of the day, the priest gave the last rites to dead and dying infantrymen. He moved about without a helmet and had given his flak jacket to a wounded man.

"The guys just seem to feel better having you around," the priest said today, plainly embarrassed by the big medal dangling crookedly from his fatigue shirt. "It just seems to make them more assured. And then when you can give the last rites to a dying man, you're glad you were there, but you always have to be careful that saying the prayers doesn't shock them into realizing how bad off they are."

The padre's buddies said, Father Liteky has extended for another six months in Vietnam.

Dems Cancel Delegation Conference

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The shooting of Sen. Robert Kennedy in California has resulted in cancellation of one major Democratic Party meeting and may cause changes in plans for some other sessions scheduled for Saturday.

Albert S. Porter, chairman of the Cuyahoga County Democratic Party, said the meeting of Ohio delegates to the Democratic National Convention which had been scheduled for Cleveland was cancelled and that in the view of the shooting he felt it was "the only decent thing to do."

A meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee is scheduled in Columbus today and a decision may be reached then on whether to cancel out a Democratic workshop scheduled in Columbus Saturday.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D - Mass., brother of Sen. Robert Kennedy, was scheduled to be a speaker at the Columbus workshop.

Earlier Sen. Stephen M. Young, Ohio's favorite son candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, and Porter had called the caucus in Cleveland Saturday. The 128-member delegation with a total of 115 votes is thus far uncommitted to any presidential contender, but the majority reportedly favors Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

A spokesman for party headquarters here said the "meeting was called by the favorite son and the national committeeman and there doesn't seem to be any way to change it."

The spokesman said both Young and Porter had been contacted last week in efforts to set a "more ideal" date for the delegate meeting. In addition to the Columbus meeting of legislative candidates, Ohio's Young Democratic Clubs are holding their annual convention in Youngstown Saturday.

A national committeeman and a committeewoman are to be elected at the Cleveland meeting. Porter is expected to be re-elected while Mrs. Helen Gunsett of Upper Arlington said Tuesday she is undecided if she will seek re-election as National committeewoman.

Possible contenders for her post may be Betty Jane Gaffney of Toledo and Gertrude Donahey, widow of the former lieutenant governor.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Brother Ridicules Funny-Talking Sister

DEAR ABBY: I was born in Vermont, where I lived for over 50 years. Now, owing to ill health, I am living with a younger brother in Nevada.

I have had little formal education, and my brother and his wife are both college graduates. To them, my way of speaking is hilariously funny. Even their children will repeat something I have said, and the whole family will laugh uproariously.

My brother will say, "We're having company tonight. Stick around. They'll get a kick out of hearing you talk." Should I be flattered? Or should I suggest they charge admission?

I respect my brother and his family for their kindness to me, but how does one keep from feeling resentment? I sometimes wonder if others are also going thru the same thing, and if so, how do they handle it?

DEAR HURT: In all probability, your brother and his family are not aware of how you feel. So tell them. People with accents, (southern, Yankee, eastern, midwestern and foreign) are frequently the objects of "curiosity," away from home. Of course it is rude and unkind to laugh at such a person, even tho the laughter may be more from amusement than ridicule.

DEAR ABBY: Unlike the 14-year-old girl whose problem was a mustache, our 13-year-old daughter, Cynthia, has thick black sideburns which are very conspicuous.

I think they look terrible, and when she goes anywhere with me, I make her comb her hair to hide them, but Cynthia thinks they look so "neat" she loops her hair over her ears to show them off!

Abby, she tries to tell me

PROBATE COURT NOTICE
All interested parties are hereby notified that the following Executrix filed her account in the Probate Court of Pickaway County, Ohio:

No. 22779 Marie E. McGhee, Executrix of the estate of Ulin F. McGhee, deceased. First and final account.

And that said account will be for hearing and settlement before this Probate Court on Monday, July 15th 1968, at 9 o'clock A.M. Exceptions to said account, if any, must be filed herein on or before July 9th, 1968.

they are "in" now. In fact, she picked up a newspaper at a barbershop showing an ad for "HIS AND HER" sideburns, sold by some wig-maker in New York. (Do they actually make such items, or is it a joke?)

Cynthia boasts that she's the only 7th grader (male or female) with genuine sideburns—like Dino Martin.

I never thought I would produce a freak like her. Maybe she'll outgrow it, but in the meantime, will you pray for us?

PASS CHRISTIAN, MISS.
DEAR PASS: The only problem I see here is a mother who is making a problem where none exists. Let the child alone. When Cynthia's sideburns become a liability to HER, together you can find a solution. In the meantime, I'll pray for a better understanding between you two.

DEAR ABBY: Last year we put in a swimming pool. Please don't get the idea that we are millionaires. We aren't. We're just average folks in moderate circumstances. We like to share our pool with our neighbors, but some people don't know when enough is enough.

We started serving soft drinks to the kids, and beer to the adults, but that didn't last long. We did a bigger business than the country club.

How can we let our neighbors know that there are days when we've invited guests, and the whole neighborhood gang is not invited? I know we should not have been so big-hearted last year, but now that we realize our mistake, what should we do?

PORTOLA VALLEY
DEAR PORTOLA VALLEY: Fly a little "flag" on a pole to let your neighbors know that the pool is open for "all." If you plan a private party, no flag. Then educate your neighbors. It's as simple as that.

DEAR ABBY: You were much too gentle in your answer to the teen-ager who looked her mother in the eye with hate and said, "I DON'T OWE YOU ANYTHING. I DIDN'T ASK TO BE BORN."

If she were my daughter, I would have said, "That's right, and I didn't HAVE to raise you either. I could have sent you to an orphanage."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Brother Ridicules Funny-Talking Sister

DEAR ABBY: I was born in Vermont, where I lived for over 50 years. Now, owing to ill health, I am living with a younger brother in Nevada.

I have had little formal education, and my brother and his wife are both college graduates. To them, my way of speaking is hilariously funny. Even their children will repeat something I have said, and the whole family will laugh uproariously.

My brother will say, "We're having company tonight. Stick around. They'll get a kick out of hearing you talk." Should I be flattered? Or should I suggest they charge admission?

I respect my brother and his family for their kindness to me, but how does one keep from feeling resentment? I sometimes wonder if others are also going through the same thing, and if so, how do they handle it?

HURT: In all probability, your brother and his family are not aware of how you feel. So tell them. People with accents, (southern, Yankee, eastern, midwestern and foreign) are frequently the objects of "curiosity," away from home. Of course it is rude and unkind to laugh at such a person, even though the laughter may be more from amusement than ridicule.

DEAR ABBY: Unlike the 14-year-old girl whose problem was a mustache, our 13-year-old daughter, Cynthia, has thick black sideburns which are very conspicuous.

I think they look terrible, and when she goes anywhere with me, I make her comb her hair to hide them, but Cynthia thinks they look so "neat" she loops her hair over her ears to show them off!

Abby, she tries to tell me

PROBATE COURT NOTICE
All interested parties are hereby notified that the following Executrix filed her account in the Probate Court of Pickaway County, Ohio: No. 22779 Marie E. McGhee, Executrix of the estate of Ulin F. McGhee, deceased. First and final account.

And that said account will be for hearing and settlement before this Probate Court on Monday, July 15th 1968, at 9 o'clock A.M. Exceptions to said account, if any, must be filed herein on or before July 9th, 1968.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Probate Court this 5th day of June, 1968.

they are "in" now. In fact, she picked up a newspaper at a barbershop showing an ad of "HIS AND HER" sideburns, sold by some wig-maker in New York. (Do they actually make such items, or is it a joke?)

Cynthia boasts that she's the only 7th grader (male or female) with genuine sideburns—like Dino Martin.

I never thought I would produce a freak like her. Maybe she'll outgrow it, but in the meantime, will you pray for us?

PASS CHRISTIAN, MISS.
DEAR PASS: The only problem I see here is a mother who is making a problem where none exists. Let the child alone.

When Cynthia's sideburns become a liability to HER, together you can find a solution. In the meantime, I'll pray for a better understanding between you two.

DEAR ABBY: Last year we put in a swimming pool. Please don't get the idea that we are millionaires. We aren't. We're just average folks in moderate circumstances. We like to share our pool with our neighbors, but some people don't know when enough is enough.

We started serving soft drinks to the kids, and beer to the adults, but that didn't last long. We did a bigger business than the country club.

How can we let our neighbors know that there are days when we've invited guests, and the whole neighborhood gang is not invited? I know we should not have been so big-hearted last year, but now that we realize our mistake, what should we do?

PORTOLA VALLEY:
DEAR PORTOLA VALLEY: Fly a little "flag" on a pole to let your neighbors know that the pool is open for "all." If you plan a private party, no flag. Then educate your neighbors. It's as simple as that.

DEAR ABBY: You were much too gentle in your answer to the teen-ager who looked her mother in the eye with hate and said, "I DON'T OWE YOU ANYTHING. I DIDN'T ASK TO BE BORN."

If she were my daughter, I would have said, "That's right, and I didn't HAVE to raise you either. I could have sent you to an orphanage."

Purses Increased for Races At Scioto Friday, Saturday

The Invitational races at Scioto Downs will carry increased purses of $5,000 this week, and there is a good reason when competition is getting tougher.

The weekend invitational series kicks off the biggest nights in the history of the plush suburban Columbus racing place. The $5,000 Invitational Trot is scheduled for Friday night, and the event attracted ten fast class diagonal gaiters.

The Friday feature marks the return to Scioto Downs of one of the nation's leading drivers, young Gerry Bookmyer. This fast rising reinsman is currently tied for third place in the nation with 90 victories, and he will be behind the sensational Frency Guy Friday night. The outstanding trotting field includes Lynn Lee owned and driven by the veteran Vic Dileman of Lima, Ohio. This winning combination captured the feature event last week.

City Merchants, Wardell Post Softball Wins

Circleville Merchants held on to a 12-8 win over Ashville Merchants Wednesday evening in the Circleville Slow Pitch Softball League.

The Roundtowners posted four runs in the second inning. Each side marked one in the third and Ashville came back to score three runs in the fourth.

Circleville Merchants pulled away in the fifth with three markers. Both teams scored four in the sixth and blanked in the last.

Lester Smith was winning pitcher for Circleville Merchants. Bob Caudill went four for four from the winners' plate and had five runs batted in. Bob Weffer had three hits in four trips and batted in three runs.

Bob McNeal knocked a three run homer for the losers.

Sponsors of Circleville Merchants are Boyer Hardware, VFW, Savings Bank, Prairie Lanes, L. M. Butch, Weaver Furniture, Ward's Royal Blue, Joe's Frosty Treat, Tootle's Pumpkin Inn, L-K Restaurant, Noel's King Boy, Palm's Salvage, Lindsey Bakery and Myer's Barber Shop.

The Ashville team is sponsored by Ashville Pharmacy, Ashville IGA, Speakman Barber Shop, Gloyd's Sohio, Shift's Place, Williamson's Gulf and Bob's Hardware.

In other games in the loop, C. E. Wardell won a pair of tilts, topping General Electric, 20-8, on a 13 run fifth inning and slamming PPG 17-2.

The Wardell team exploded for 26 hits in the game with GE. Hunter tagged a homer and a double for the winners. Huffman had a four bagger and a pair of three baggers. Chet Jowy Jr. homered and added a double.

Wardell came up with 23 hits against PPG. The Glassers had 12 of their own and scored both their runs in the fifth frame. Mc Connell homered and doubled for the winners.

College Squeeze: Fourth of a Series

Alabama U Athletic Dynasty Escapes Money Woes

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — A visitor to the University of Alabama campus seeking a conference with head football coach Paul "Bear" Bryant is directed first to a sumptuous, $3,294,000 structure with a glistening dome.

He is led to a second floor foyer rich in Oriental trappings and mosaics, through a cordon of secretaries and into a large, fashionably decorated room that might have come off Wall Street.

The wall is paneled. The drapes are thick and luxurious. The table is mahogany and behind it is a tall, ladder-back chair—The Man's chair. There is a divan, also two upholstered chairs for guests.

This luxury surrounds the headquarters staff of the nation's most successful college football team.

The financial squeeze which is gripping many of the nation's major university athletic programs because of skyrocketing inflation fails to manifest itself in this rock bed of football power.

Bryant has been at Alabama, his alma mater, since 1958. Since 1959, the Crimson Tide has not been out of the Top Ten football rankings. They were national champions in 1961, 1964 and 1965, third in 1966 when they were unbeaten.

Over the period of the last eight years, they have the best record in the country—75 victories, eight defeats and five ties. They have played in nine straight bowl games.

The new athletic complex, opened this year, covers two acres. It is called The Coliseum. It has 15,000 theatre-type chairs to be used for basketball, concerts and convocations. It is cooled by 270 tons of air-conditioning. It houses dressing rooms, film studios and all athletic offices.

"We don't spend a quarter of the taxpayer's money," says Bryant.

Alabama's athletic program is self-sustaining—thanks to its football success—and operates virtually independently of the rest of the university.

The athletic fund not only pays the full freight for the over-all sports program but usually has enough left over to pass along sizeable contributions to the university. Five years ago the fund donated $300,000. Recently, another $200,000 was given to a fund drive.

"We have been responsible for raising salaries of the faculty," Bryant said.

Football at Alabama is strictly big time. Bryant's coaching philosophy is: "Winning is the only thing." "A tie," he once said, "is like kissing your sister."

He has 13 assistant coaches, two graduate assistants and four under-graduate assistants. Each of the 13 assistants has his own private office, only slightly less luxurious than that of his boss. All offices—even Bryant's—are equipped with a blackboard, two pieces of chalk and two erasers.

They hold coaches' sessions in a board room that would do justice to the board of directors at General Motors.

Alabama gives 40 football scholarships a year—the conference limit—and keep its total within the 125 limit. It has 25 basketball scholarships, eight for track, eight for baseball, five for swimming and five divided between golf and tennis. The football players are the aristocrats.

They live to themselves in a colonial three-story brick structure called Paul W. Bryant Hall but referred to as the Bear Bryant Hilton. It's just like a hotel with a carpeted lobby with circular fireplace, study rooms, private dining room and kitchen.

Alabama's athletic budget runs around $1,500,000 a year. Contrary to common belief, the athletic coffers aren't fattened by bowl appearances.

"Our biggest purse was $215,000 from the Orange Bowl in 1966," a spokesman said. "Of this, $100,000 went to the conference. The rest was spent on the Miami trip. We took the entire athletic staff and, as usual, we went first class."

Next, Notre Dame, Subdued Grandeur.

Grand Slams Pace Yanks, Orioles

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
It was a simply grand evening for Joe Pepitone and Dave Johnson but not so good for Buddy Bradford.

Pepitone drove in six runs—four of them with a grand slam home run—leading the New York Yankees to a 7-2 romp over Minnesota Wednesday night.

Johnson also tagged a grand slam and Baltimore belted California 7-1.

But Bradford was $5 lighter in the wallet as the first victim of Eddie Stanky's campaign to wake up his Chicago White Sox. The Sox bowed 1-0 to Cleveland and Bradford was the only player to violate Stanky's new Golden Rules.

In other American League action Wednesday, Detroit nipped Boston 5-4 and Washington clipped Oakland 3-6.

Pepitone unloaded his fourth career grand slam and second against Dean Chance in the first inning and the Yankees coasted after that. Horace Clarke led off with a single and Roy White and Mickey Mantle walked before Pepitone connected.

In the fifth inning, after the Twins had cut the lead in half on consecutive homers by Harmon Killebrew and Tony Oliva, White and Mantle walked, setting up Pepitone again. This time Joe hit a sinking liner that got past Ted Uhlaender's diving try and rolled to the wad for a triple.

Mel Stottlemyre, 7-4, coasted with a five-hitter, disturbed only by the consecutive homers by Killebrew and Oliva.

A single by Brooks Robinson and two walks loaded the bases for Baltimore against California's Clyde Wright in the fifth inning and Johnson sliced a 315-foot homer just inside the right field foul line.

Curt Motton had homered earlier for the Orioles and Jim Hardin coasted with a five-hitter for his seventh victory.

Bradford failed to score a runner from third base with less than two out—one of three sins Stanky has decided will cost the White Sox $5 for every violation. The others are failure to advance a runner who reached second with less than two out and failure to advance a runner in a bunt situation.

The ground rules were installed after Chicago had dropped 3-2 and 2-1 decisions at the hands of the Indians. The improvement was not immediately noticeable.

Stan Williams was in almost absolute control until the eighth so Stanky didn't have much chance to put his system to work. Duane Josephson opened with a pinch double and Russ Snyder advanced him on a fly ball. But Bradford bounced out, invoking the fine, and Sandy Alomar, off the hook with two out, struck out, ending the inning.

Mike Paul and Hal Kurtz bailed Williams out of a ninth inning jam—no fines incurred, though—to complete the shut-out.

Jose Cardenal drove in Cleveland's only run with a second-inning single after Duke Sims had doubled.

Frank Howard boomed his 21st homer of the year, carrying Washington to its victory over Oakland. Howard's two-run shot

WCH Pacer Cops Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Little Jerry Way, owned by Eleanor French of Washington Court House, won the featured race at Scioto Downs Wednesday night and returned $3.80, $3.20 and $2.60.

The winner paced the mile in 2:03 2-5 and beat Scot Galophone by a length. Scot Galophone paid $12.40 and $4.20 and Irish T. showed for $3.20.

Summer Magic and Sukey Sue (4-3) combined for a daily double worth $49.40.

Toledo Tightens Grip on Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Toledo Mud Hens maintained their hold on the International League lead Wednesday night by defeating the Syracuse Chiefs 3-2 at Toledo.

It took an 11th inning single by Ron Wood to break a 2-2 tie and rack up the eighth straight victory for the Mud Hens.

Winning pitcher Mike Marshall scored his sixth victory in 10 games.

The Columbus Jets moved to within one game of Toledo by downing Richmond 1-0 before a hometown crowd of 7,250.

Dave Roberts, a Columbus high school product, hurled a three-hit shutout, racking up his fifth win in seven decisions.

The Buffalo Bisons took a 6-1 decision from Rochester and Louisville's Galen Cisco pitched a shutout as the Colonels edged Jacksonville 1-0.

Patrick Gets Golf Letter

SPRINGFIELD — Senior Dick Patrick of Circleville, who averaged 80.1 shots a round, has been recommended for his second varsity golf letter at Whittenberg University.

The Tigers' number four swinger was the team's leading scorer as he tallied 24.5 out of a possible 40 points in dual matches.

Patrick also led the team with a round of 78 against Marietta as Wittenberg suffered only its second losing season in the last 10 years with a 2-8 mark.

Dick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Patrick of 315 Wood Lane.

River Downs Track Back in Operation

CINCINNATI (AP) — River Downs race track opened Wednesday for the first time since May 27 and longshots highlighted the action.

Court Tower, at 82-1 and not a victory to its credit in five previous starts, came from behind to win the third race and pay $165, $68.50 and $20.80.

The second largest quinella in the track's history was recorded in the fifth when the combination of Granite Kid, which won, and Steering, which placed, returned $829.50.

College Squeeze: Fourth of a Series

Alabama U Athletic Dynasty Escapes Money Woes

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — A visitor to the University of Alabama campus seeking a conference with head football Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant is directed first to a sumptuous, $3,294,000 structure with a glistening dome.

He is led to a second floor foyer rich in Oriental trappings and mosaics, through a cordon of secretaries and into a large, fashionably decorated room that might have come off Wall Street.

The wall is paneled. The drapes are thick and luxurious. The table is mahogany and behind it is a tall, ladder-back chair—The Man's chair. There is a divan, also two upholstered chairs for guests.

This luxury surrounds the headquarters staff of the nation's most successful college football team.

The financial squeeze which is gripping many of the nation's major university athletic programs because of skyrocketing inflation fails to manifest itself in this rock bed of football power.

Bryant has been at Alabama, his alma mater, since 1958. Since 1959, the Crimson Tide has not been out of the Top Ten football rankings. They were national champions in 1961, 1964 and 1965, third in 1966 when they were unbeaten.

Over the period of the last eight years, they have the best record in the country—75 victories, eight defeats and five ties. They have played in nine straight bowl games.

The new athletic complex, opened this year, covers two acres. It is called The Coliseum. It has 15,000 theatre-type chairs to be used for basketball, concerts and convocations. It is cooled by 270 tons of air-conditioning. It houses dressing rooms, film studios and all athletic offices.

"We don't spend a quarter of the taxpayer's money," says Bryant.

Alabama's athletic program is self-sustaining—thanks to its football success—and operates virtually independently of the rest of the university.

The athletic fund not only pays the full freight for the over-all sports program but usually has enough left over to pass along sizeable contributions to the university.

Five years ago the fund donated $300,000. Recently, another $200,000 was given to a fund drive.

"We have been responsible for raising salaries of the faculty," Bryant said.

Football at Alabama is strictly big time. Bryant's coaching philosophy is: "Winning is the only thing." "A tie," he once said, "is like kissing your sister."

He has 13 assistant coaches, two graduate assistants and four under-graduate assistants. Each of the 13 assistants has his own private office, only slightly less luxurious than that of his boss. All offices—even Bryant's—are equipped with a blackboard, two pieces of chalk and two erasers.

They hold coaches' sessions in a board room that would do justice to the board of directors at General Motors.

Alabama gives 40 football scholarships a year—the conference limit—and keeps its total within the 125 limit. It has 25 basketball scholarships, eight for track, eight for baseball, five for swimming and five divided between golf and tennis.

The football players are the aristocrats.

They live to themselves in a colonial three-story brick structure called Paul W. Bryant Hall but referred to as the Bear Bryant Hilton. It's just like a hotel with a carpeted lobby with circular fireplace, study rooms, private dining room and kitchen.

Alabama's athletic budget runs around $1,500,000 a year. Contrary to common belief, the athletic coffers aren't fattened by bowl appearances.

"Our biggest purse was $215,000 from the Orange Bowl in 1966," a spokesman said. "Of this, $100,000 went to the conference. The rest was spent on the Miami trip. We took the entire athletic staff and, as usual, we went first class."

Grand Slams Pace Yanks, Orioles

It was a simply grand evening for Joe Pepitone and Dave Johnson but not so good for Buddy Bradford.

Pepitone drove in six runs—four of them with a grand slam home run—leading the New York Yankees to a 7-2 romp over Minnesota Wednesday night.

Johnson also tagged a grand slam and Baltimore belted California 7-1.

But Bradford was $5 lighter in the wallet as the first victim of Eddie Stanky's campaign to

Cards Win 8th Straight; LA Edges Bucs

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Writer

The Houston Astros pulled a sneaky trick on the red-faced St. Louis Cardinals and wound up with as much to show for it as the Pittsburgh Pirates, who caused their own embarrassment.

The Astros and Cardinals were locked in a 1-1 deadlock in the seventh inning Wednesday night when Julian Javier of St. Louis was tagged out at second base on the old hidden ball trick.

But the Cardinals wiped the egg off their faces and unloaded consecutive hits by Curt Flood, Roger Maris and Orlando Cepeda in the eighth for a run that sent them to a 3-1 victory, their eighth straight.

Pittsburgh never had that chance to make amends as Los Angeles scored in the last of the 10th inning for a 2-1 victory when Maury Wills and Jerry May let in the winning run with errors on the same play.

Gary Nolan, troubled by a sore arm most of the season, left hard-hitting Atlanta a bit chagrined by stopping the Braves on three hits in pitching Cincinnati to a 10-0 rout.

In afternoon games in the National League, Tom Seaver and the New York Mets halted the Chicago Cubs 4-2, and Woody Fryman hurled Philadelphia by San Francisco 2-1 with a six-hitter.

Houston's moment for joy came after Javier singled and reached second base with two out as St. Louis pitcher Larry Jaster bunted and was thrown out by losing hurler Larry Dierker with second baseman Julio Gotay covering first base. Gotay, a former Cardinal who failed to win the second base job from Javier in the early 1960s, kept the ball and walked back to second base and first baseman Rusty Staub went in to chat with Dierker. Javier stepped off the bag and, surprise, Gotay finally got him off second.

But the first-place Cardinals wasted little time erasing the glee of the Astros and saddled them with a fifth consecutive loss on Cepeda's hit and a run-scoring double by Lou Brock in the ninth.

Jaster, 4-2, allowed only six hits and the run off him was only the second earned marker he has given in 33 1-3 innings this season. He left after walking the first hitter in the ninth and rookie Wayne Granger retired the next three batters.

Bill Singer, 5-5, of the Dodgers and Al McBean, also 5-5, of Pittsburgh were locked in a 1-1 duel when embarrassment set in on the Pirates. Paul Popovich opened the 10th with a single and Versalles forced him at second. After Ron Fairly batted for Singer and popped out, the fun began when Wes Parker singled to center.

The throw from the outfield to third base got by Wills, extra embarrassing for a former Dodger who had his greatest days in Dodger Stadium. Versalles tried to score on the error and did when catcher May dropped the throw home.

Nolan, a rookie sensation in 1967, was making only his second start this season and had the Braves hanging their heads as he didn't allow a runner past second base. He had plenty of support as Lee May and Tony Perez each slammed two-run homers and Perez drove in two more with a single.

Seaver, given only 19 runs in his first 11 starts, raised his record to 3-5 although he left in the eighth inning with a pulled muscle in his left side. He also ignited a three-run fifth inning with a single. Fryman won his eighth game in 12 decisions and his fifth in a row by outpitching Gaylord Perry. A sacrifice fly by Tony Gonzalez and an error by Nate Olivgave up his first earned run in 38 1-3 innings when Willie Mays slammed his 10th homer in the second.

Nolan Returns; Shines As Reds Dump Braves, 10-0

CINCINNATI (AP) — Although Gary Nolan missed more than one-fourth of the current season, he gave all indications Wednesday night of being in top form as he baffled Atlanta.

The 20-year-old made his second start of 1968 an impressive one, scattering three hits, striking out six and walking only two in hurling Cincinnati past the Braves 10-0.

"My arm feels real good," said Nolan, hampered early this season by pain in his right pitching arm.

"It's coming along real good and that really makes your arm feel good when they come through like that," Nolan said of the solid support he got in the form of 10 runs in 12 hits.

He admitted he tired a little in the eighth and ninth innings, but he said his pitches were still alive.

Last Friday, the fireballer hurled six innings against Philadelphia in his starting debut.

Nolan posted a 14-8 record last year with a 2.58 earned run average and struck out 206 men in 227 innings.

Reds' pitching coach Mel Harder said after Nolan's performance Wednesday night, "He was pretty tired, but we had such a big lead, we could let him go all the way because we knew nine innings would do him a lot of good."

Tony Perez knocked in four runs with his sixth homer and a two-run single and Lee May socked a two-run homer in the fourth inning, his fifth of the year.

Cincinnati took an 8-0 lead in the fifth as it exploded for six runs, tying its biggest single-inning output of the year.

The triumph was quite satisfying to the whole Cincinnati team, including the league's leading hitter Pete Rose, who went hitless in three official at bats and had a 14-game batting streak snapped.

"That was the biggest collar (hitless game) I've enjoyed and it felt real good," said Rose.

Fred Whitfield, Reds first baseman, burned the pupil of his right eye when sulphur from a match flew into his eye Wednesday. He is expected to be out of action several days.

Warmath To Pilot All-Star Squad

CHICAGO (AP) — Murray Warmath of Minnesota heads a five-man staff of assistants named by head Coach Norm Van Brocklin for the College All-Stars who meet the Green Bay Packers in Soldier Field Aug. 2.

Warmath is the first collegiate coach on the staff in many years. He completed his 14th season at Minnesota last year as the Gophers shared the Big Ten title.

Van Brocklin, former Minnesota Viking coach and 12-year National Football League quarterback, will be making his All-Star game debut.

Joining Warmath on the staff are four former pro stars: Carl Taseff, former cornerback for the Baltimore Colts; Bob To-noff, longtime tackle for the San Francisco 49ers and Washington Redskins; Gordon Smith, Viking end under Van Brocklin, and Duane Putnam, former guard and teammate of Van Brocklin on the Los Angeles Rams.

Cards Win 8th Straight; LA Edges Bucs

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Writer
The Houston Astros pulled a sneaky trick on the red-faced St. Louis Cardinals and wound up with as much to show for it as the Pittsburgh Pirates, who caused their own embarrassment.

The Astros and Cardinals were locked in a 1-1 deadlock in the seventh inning Wednesday night when Julian Javier of St. Louis was tagged out at second base on the old hidden ball trick.

Nolan Returns; Shines As Reds Dump Braves, 10-0

CINCINNATI (AP) — Although Gary Nolan missed more than one-fourth of the current season, he gave all indications Wednesday night of being in top form as he baffled Atlanta.

The 20-year-old made his second start of 1968 an impressive one, scattering three hits, striking out six and walking only two in hurling Cincinnati past the Braves 10-0.

"My arm feels real good," said Nolan, hampered early this season by pain in his right pitching arm.

But the Cardinals wiped the egg off their faces and unloaded consecutive hits by Curt Flood, Roger Maris and Orlando Cepeda in the eighth for a run that sent them to a 3-1 victory, their eighth straight.

Pittsburgh never had that chance to make amends as Los Angeles scored in the last of the 10th inning for a 2-1 victory when Maury Wills and Jerry May let in the winning run with errors on the same play.

Gary Nolan, troubled by a sore arm most of the season, left hard-hitting Atlanta a bit chagrined by stopping the Braves on three hits in pitching Cincinnati to a 10-0 rout.

In afternoon games in the National League, Tom Seaver and the New York Mets halted the Chicago Cubs 4-2, and Woody Fryman hurled Philadelphia by San Francisco 2-1 with a six-hit performance.

Houston's moment for joy came after Javier singled and reached second base with two out as St. Louis pitcher Larry Jaster bunted and was thrown out by losing hurler Larry Dierker with second baseman Julio Gotay covering first base. Gotay, a former Cardinal who failed to win the second base job from Javier in the early 1960s, kept the ball and walked back to second base and first baseman Rusty Staub went in to chat with Dierker. Javier stepped off the bag and, surprise, Gotay finally got him off second.

But the first-place Cardinals wasted little time erasing the glee of the Astros and saddled them with a fifth consecutive loss on Cepeda's hit and a run-scoring double by Lou Brock in the ninth.

Jaster, 4-2, allowed only six hits and the run off him was only the second earned marker he has given in 33 1-3 innings this season. He left after walking the first hitter in the ninth and rookie Wayne Granger retired the next three batters.

Bill Singer, 5-5, of the Dodgers and Al McBean, also 5-5, of Pittsburgh were locked in a 1-1 duel when embarrassment set in on the Pirates. Paul Popovich opened the 10th with a single and Versalles forced him at second. After Ron Fairly batted for Singer and popped out, the fun began when Wes Parker singled to center.

The throw from the outfield to third base got by Wills, extra embarrassing for a former Dodger who had his greatest days in Dodger Stadium. Versalles tried to score on the error and did when catcher May dropped the throw home.

Nolan, a rookie sensation in 1967, was making only his second start this season and had the Braves hanging their heads as he didn't allow a runner past second base. He had plenty of support as Lee May and Tony Perez each slammed two-run homers and Perez drove in two more with a single.

Seaver, given only 19 runs in his first 11 starts, raised his record to 3-5 although he left in the eighth inning with a pulled muscle in his left side. He also ignited a three-run fifth inning

PITCHING Gary Nolan—, Reds, bothered much of the season by arm trouble, made his second start and hurled a three-hitter as Cincinnati crushed Atlanta 10-0.

BATTING — Joe Pepitone, Yankees, cracked a grand slam home run and drove in two more runs with a triple, powering New York to a 7-2 triumph over Minnesota.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Xavier University graduated a record 1,202 students Wednesday who were urged by the president of Boston College to respond to "agonizing needs" of the nation's urban centers.

Politicians See Easy Road Ahead for Humphrey

Cancer Clinic To Operate Semi-Monthly

The Early Detection Cancer Clinic will continue to operate twice monthly during the summer months as well as the remainder of the year, according to Mrs. David Hoffman, Clinic chairman.

Mrs. Hoffman reports that although the response to this newly formed community service has been very good, the women of Pickaway County must continue to avail themselves of the services of this clinic.

The next clinic night will be Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. at Berger Hospital. The clinic is operational every second and fourth Monday nights of each month and is geared to serve Pickaway County women of low-income families. It offers a pelvic examination, a Papanicolaou test, breast examination and instructions in self-breast examination.

Early diagnosis and treatment are urged to eliminate and control uterine cancer in women. Prompt action protects. Uterine cancer is almost always curable when detected in its early stages. It is estimated that some 14,000 deaths among women will be attributed to uterine cancer. Almost all of these deaths will be needless.

The hope in averting this tragedy lies in the PAP test. The Pickaway County Unit, American Cancer Society, strongly urges all women to consult their family physicians or the Early Detection Cancer Clinic about this simple and painless examination.

Batavian Wins
Mrs. Ohio Title

CHICAGO (AP)—Ohio's No. 1 "homemaker" is a former Kentuckian.

Mrs. Harold B. Bissantz of Batavia, Ohio, was announced Wednesday as winner of the Mrs. Ohio title and will represent the state in the national Mrs. America finals Aug. 14-25 at Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn.

The selection was made here by officials of the Mrs. America Pageant.

Mrs. Bissantz was born in West Liberty, Ky., but has lived in Ohio 28 years. She and her husband have two children.

Named runner-up was Mrs. Michael S. Schenk of Cincinnati. Mrs. Dick Raymond Gierke of Kent was second runner-up.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

year turned a fatal corner and left what many observers see as an uneven race between Humphrey and his fellow Minnesotan, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

Although the Humphrey name has not appeared on any primary ballots, he claims to have built up a long lead by picking up delegates in the tough backstage battles in the nonprimary states while Kennedy and McCarthy were battling it out in primaries.

Many observers felt only the Kennedy mystique and dash could overcome Humphrey's strong base of Democratic "establishment" support among party leaders and labor unions.

Humphrey and his aides had refused to speculate on the political impact of the Kennedy shooting and, along with McCarthy, clamped an indefinite moratorium on campaigning even before the senator's death.

"We think it's not only inappropriate to speculate," said a Humphrey aide, "we think it's offensive."

After the Kennedy shooting, a strategist said, Humphrey aides sent appeals to supporters asking that planned caucuses of Ohio and Michigan delegations, where the vice president hoped to nail down more support, be postponed.

And the strategist said, Humphrey called off plans to begin campaigning in New York for the Empire State's primary. He canceled a schedule calling for him to open his California campaign June 13.

MOMENTS LATER HE WAS SHOT—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, with his wife Ethel beside him, gives the victory sign to a huge crowd at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles after winning the state's Democratic presidential primary election. Moments later he was felled by a gunman's bullets.

McCarthy, returning to Washington Wednesday night, said he would confer with President Johnson and the vice president "before taking on other political activities of any kind."

A Humphrey aide had said the vice president would welcome a meeting with his old friend and political ally from Minnesota.

Even while competing for the Democratic nomination, Humphrey and McCarthy have reportedly continued to have private chats.

Kennedy's death came at a critical turning point in the pre-convention campaign.

With their primary show-downs concluded, Kennedy and McCarthy were preparing to wrestle Humphrey for votes in states that pick their delegates in caucuses and convention—or by non-binding primaries.

After his victories Tuesday in the California and South Dakota primaries—which he had proclaimed only moments before being shot—Kennedy had 274½ votes in the Associated Press tabulation of Democratic National Convention delegates already selected. Humphrey has 308½ and McCarthy 234½ in the AP tabulation.

Humphrey has said he has more than 600 pledged delegates. But he has also said it would be insulting to the delegates to claim he had the convention locked up.

The delegate-rich states of Illinois and New York have yet to select their delegates.

Kennedy's death is expected to swing most of those party leaders—like Chicago's Mayor Richard J. Daley—who had not yet chosen sides to rally under the Humphrey colors.

Politicians See Easy Road Ahead for Humphrey

Cancer Clinic To Operate Semi-Monthly

The Early Detection Cancer Clinic will continue to operate twice monthly during the summer months as well as the remainder of the year, according to Mrs. David Hoffman, Clinic chairman.

Mrs. Hoffman reports that although the response to this newly formed community service has been very good, the women of Pickaway County must continue to avail themselves of the services of this clinic.

The next clinic night will be Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. at Berger Hospital. The clinic is operational every second and fourth Monday nights of each month and is geared to serve Pickaway County women of low-income families. It offers a pelvic examination, a Pap Smear test, breast examination and instructions in self-breast examination.

Early diagnosis and treatment are urged to eliminate and control uterine cancer in women. Prompt action protects. Uterine cancer is almost always curable when detected in its early stages. It is estimated that some 14,000 deaths among women will be attributed to uterine cancer. Almost all of these deaths will be needless.

The hope in averting this tragedy lies in the PAP test. The Pickaway County Unit, American Cancer Society strongly urges all women to consult their family physicians or the Early Detection Cancer Clinic about this simple and painless examination.

Mrs. Bissantz was born in West Liberty, Ky., but has lived in Ohio 28 years. She and her husband have two children.

Named runner-up was Mrs. Michael S. Schenk of Cincinnati. Mrs. Dick Raymond Gierke of Kent was second runner-up.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

year turned a fatal corner and left what many observers see as an uneven race between Humphrey and his fellow Minnesotan, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

Although the Humphrey name has not appeared on any primary ballots, he claims to have built up a long lead by picking up delegates in the tough backstage battles in the nonprimary states while Kennedy and McCarthy were battling it out in primaries.

Many observers felt only the Kennedy mystique and dash could overcome Humphrey's strong base of Democratic "establishment" support among party leaders and labor unions. Humphrey and his aides had refused to speculate on the political impact of the Kennedy shooting and, along with McCarthy, clamped an indefinite moratorium on campaigning even before the senator's death.

"We think it's not only inappropriate to speculate," said a Humphrey aide, "we think it's offensive."

After the Kennedy shooting, a strategist said, Humphrey aides sent appeals to supporters asking that planned caucuses of Ohio and Michigan delegations, where the vice president hoped to nail down more support, be postponed.

And the strategist said, Humphrey called off plans to begin campaigning in New York for the Empire State's primary. He canceled a schedule calling for him to open his California campaign June 13.

McCarthy, returning to Washington Wednesday night, said he would confer with President Johnson and the vice president "before taking on other political activities of any kind."

A Humphrey aide had said the vice president would welcome a meeting with his old friend and political ally from Minnesota.

Even while competing for the Democratic nomination, Humphrey and McCarthy have reportedly continued to have private chats.

Kennedy's death came at a critical turning point in the pre-convention campaign. With their primary show-downs concluded, Kennedy and McCarthy were preparing to wrestle Humphrey for votes in states that pick their delegates in caucuses and convention—or by non-binding primaries.

After his victories Tuesday in the California and South Dakota primaries—which he had proclaimed only moments before being shot—Kennedy had 274 1/2 votes in the Associated Press tabulation of Democratic National Convention delegates already selected. Humphrey has 308 1/2 and McCarthy 234 1/2 in the AP tabulation.

Humphrey has said he has more than 600 pledged delegates. But he has also said it would be insulting to the delegates to claim he had the convention locked up.

The delegate-rich states of Illinois and New York have yet to select their delegates.

Kennedy's death is expected to swing most of those party leaders—like Chicago's Mayor Richard J. Daley—who had not yet chosen sides to rally under the Humphrey colors.

MOMENTS LATER HE WAS SHOT—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, with his wife Ethel beside him, gives the victory sign to a huge crowd at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles after winning the state's Democratic presidential primary election. Moments later he was felled by a gunman's bullets.
